Government Opposition In Britain Sees 'Scandal'

COMMONS AROUSED
Conservative Member Asserts He Was Threatened

London.—(AP)—Britain's political storm over the official secrets act was intensified today when Duncan Sandys, central figure in the turmoil, told a turbulent house of commons he had been ordered to appear before a military court.

Sandys, conservative member of the house and son-in-law of Winston Churchill, declared this was "a gross breach of the privileges of this house."

London.—(AP)—A double-barrelled inquiry involving questions of broad political significance threatened to weave new strands into the already tangled web of Britain's defense and Spanish war problems today.

The war ministry selected "Big Bill" General Sir Edmund Ironside to head a military court of inquiry to learn who had been "spilling the beans" on secrets of Britain's anti-aircraft defense.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, the dynamic war minister whose combination of boyish enthusiasm and ruthless efficiency has swept him to widespread popularity, stood to play an important role in what the government opposition said might develop into a first class "scandal."

The Waukesha grand jury indicted Murray on a charge of attempted bribery of Moran when he was in office, in an attempt to secure permission to operate slot machines.

Formal hearing on the extradition writ will be held in Chicago felony court July 7, Steinle said.

The cleanup of vice conditions in Waukesha county progressed another step yesterday when Sheriff Walter A. Laskowitz and Gomillion padlocked two night clubs on orders of Circuit Judge G. M. Davison.

The places padlocked were operated by Theodore Kramer and Ann Sekas. Both were raided last November by agents of the state beverage tax division for selling liquor without licenses.

A third place, operated by Marion Wood, was raided at the same time.

Chamberlain swiftly promised an investigation of the threat by a select committee of commons.

The motion for appointment of a committee will be debated Thursday.

This committee's inquiry would be separate from the one ordered by the war office "immediately" to find out who gave Sandys his information.

Fear Consequences
It was apparent that the inquiry might have fateful consequences for the government of Prime Minister Chamberlain, already concerned by the public reaction to Spanish insurgent air raids on Britain's pride, her merchant ships.

Renewed bombings yesterday of Spanish government ports, where mounting demand to British shipping has inflamed a large section of British public opinion, put pressure on Prime Minister Chamberlain to find a solution of the war or a means of stopping the attacks.

These raids came less than 24 hours after the Spanish government announced it was holding in abeyance its threat to retaliate, perhaps on Italian cities, until it could see the effect of a neutral commission instituted to investigate whether bombings of civilians were justified by military objectives.

Sweden Withdrawn
It was expected the commission would be ready to function at Toulouse, France, by the end of this week but Paris dispatches said an unexpected snag had been encountered in the refusal of Sweden to participate.

Official quarters in Stockholm refused to comment but observers there were of the opinion that the decision was not definite. Sweden's

Act to Extradite Chicago Attorney In Waukesha Quiz

Officials to Go to Illinois Tomorrow for Hearing

Waukesha, Wis.—(AP)—Special Prosecutor Roland J. Steinle, Otis Gomillion, investigator, and Arthur J. Moran, former Waukesha county sheriff, will appear tomorrow before Governor Horner of Illinois at Springfield for a preliminary hearing on the request for extradition of Simon A. Murray, Chicago attorney.

The Waukesha grand jury indicted Murray on a charge of attempted bribery of Moran when he was in office, in an attempt to secure permission to operate slot machines.

Formal hearing on the extradition writ will be held in Chicago felony court July 7, Steinle said.

Dismiss Beloit School Director

Superintendent Says He Will Continue to Hold Office Until Removed

Beloit.—(AP)—The board of education, by a four to two vote late yesterday, approved a resolution dispensing with the services of D. F. Rice, Beloit superintendent of schools, upon the expiration of his contract June 30.

Rice, in a verbal statement after the action, declared that "under the state teachers' tenure law I am still superintendent of schools here and I will continue in my office until I am legally removed."

Under the tenure law formal charges must now be filed by the board against Rice.

After the vote the meeting was adjourned over the protests of several among the 20 persons attending, including Mrs. Leola Rice, who demanded to know the reason for her husband's dismissal.

Rice, who completed his sixth year as superintendent this month, came here from Ironwood, Mich., where he served as superintendent of schools for 12 years.

Union and Confederate Veterans Bury Old Enmities at Gettysburg Reunion

Gettysburg, Pa.—(AP)—War veterans from all parts of the nation, a gay-hearted, joyous cavalcade, flocked into this welcoming village today and opened camp for the seventy-fifth anniversary observance of the great battle of '63.

Bells clanging, locomotives chugging, long trains puffing into town with old soldiers from the west and south. Added to the thousands of so who came by train during the morning, several hundred from eastern points arrived by bus. Members of the anniversary commission said that by nightfall the majority of the 2,000 expected would be here.

Attendees escorted the boys of the blue and the gray to mess tents for breakfast and lunch. From there the veterans went visiting with comrades of the war days, or

Republican Contest for Senate Is Highlight Of Primary

THORESEN IS LEADING

Sheppard Says Committee Will Make Probe of Absentee Ballots

Fargo, N. D.—(AP)—United States Senator Gerald P. Nye held a commanding lead over Governor William Langer in their fight for the Republican nomination for senator as returns streamed in from yesterday's primary election.

The Nye-Langer scrap highlighted an election fought mainly on issues of state government, and threw into the shade a Democratic contest in which only a few of the candidates faced opposition.

Nye's running mate on the "Progressive Non-Partisan League" slate, was Lieutenant Governor T. H. H. Thoresen, who was leading Langer's candidate, John Hagan, agricultural commissioner, in the race for nomination as governor.

Congressmen Leading
Returns from 775 of the state's 2,260 precincts for the Republican nomination for senator gave Nye 47,742 and Langer 32,410.

In the Republican governor nomination, 759 precincts gave Thoresen 39,195 and Hagan 30,543.

Both of North Dakota's representatives in congress, Usher L. Burdick and William Lomen, were leading a field of six candidates for the Republican nomination for congressman, with Burdick slightly ahead of Lomen.

Returns from 446 precincts gave Burdick 23,182; Lomen 22,656; Sivert W. Thompson 8,009; Henry G. Owen 7,879; C. F. Kelsch 7,217 and John Field 1,047.

On the Democratic side, only a few votes and one county as election officials concentrated on the Republican ballots. Candidates of the "regular" organization were running ahead of opponents backed by a "progressive" group or seeking nomination as independents.

North Dakota's two representatives in congress are elected at large, with two to be nominated from each party.

Washington.—(AP)—Chairman Sheppard (D-Texas) announced today the senate campaign investigating committee would poll all county auditors in North Dakota at once to determine the extent to which absentee ballots were used in yesterday's primary election.

At the same time, Sheppard told reporters that he did not believe speeches by President Roosevelt, in

Eau Claire Awarded 1939 Encampment of G. A. R. Department

Milwaukee.—(AP)—The Wisconsin department of the G. A. R. voted today to hold its 1939 encampment at Eau Claire.

John W. Hart of LaCrosse was chosen as the new commander, succeeding W. P. Bryant of Milwaukee.

Other officers elected were Joseph Miller of Richland Center, senior vice commander; A. R. Kibbe, New Richmond, junior vice commander; Henry Held, Milwaukee, chaplain; and W. H. Chesbrough, Beloit, color sergeant.

The convention voted to back Held for national commander at the Des Moines, Iowa, national G. A. R. convention. Held now is national senior vice commander.

Mrs. May Luchsinger, Monroe, was endorsed for the national presidency of the women's relief corps. Commander Hart appointed Erich Westernhagen, Milwaukee, as delegate at large to the national convention.

The veterans today were to pick the site of the 1938 encampment, and participate in their windup convention parade.

Lumberjack Freed In Fatal Shooting Of U. S. Forester

Vernon Cox Acquitted at Crandon; Jury Deliberates Nearly 10 Hours

Crandon, Wis.—(AP)—Vernon Cox, 19-year-old lumberjack, was acquitted today by a circuit court jury of manslaughter charges in the fatal shooting last November of Royal Nettleton, United States forester, in the Nicolet National forest.

The jury, charged to return verdicts of first, or fourth degree manslaughter, or acquittal, found Cox innocent at 11:30 a. m. After nearly ten hours of deliberation. The case went to the jury at 3:45 p. m. yesterday. The jurors ended their deliberations at 10 o'clock last night, resuming at 8 o'clock today.

Warden Louis Oshesky of Three Lakes, Wis., announced after the verdict he would seek the arrest of Cox on a game law violation charge. Oshesky asserted Cox had no hunting license, and was hunting deer five days before the season opened.

Cox was charged with the fatal shooting of Royal Nettleton, a junior United States forester, last Nov. 24. Nettleton was making a "treep observation in the Nicolet National forest when he was shot. He died at Iron Mountain, Mich., from the effects of a hip wound.

The youth testified he fired at an object in a tree while hunting and when the object fell realized he had fired at a man.

Pickets on Duty At Co-Op Plant

Determined to Prevent Re- turn of Ousted Union Workers

Richland Center.—(AP)—Farm patrons of the Richland Cooperative Creamery maintained a picket line around the plant today to prevent the return of 10 union workers evicted yesterday at the request of 500 producers supplying milk to the creamery.

Except for the marching of 15 farmer pickets, all was peaceful at the plant. The management reported the dry milk department had been closed down but otherwise operations were on a normal basis. No effort had been made to replace the ousted workers.

The union men were ushered out of the plant quietly yesterday by Sheriff Ben McClaren as the climax to five months of dispute over organization of the creamery by the A. F. of L. Truckers and Teamsters union.

Manager B. L. Bowens yielded to a vote of the patrons that they did not want a union plant and did not want any of the union workers retained.

The action brought to a standstill negotiations conducted by N. S. Clark of Milwaukee, regional director of the national labor relations board, to settle the controversy.

The board had recommended, but not ordered, re-hiring of three men alleged to have been discharged previously for union activity. Clark and the management reached a compromise Monday night under which the board would drop all charges in return for concessions to the union.

The regional director said today this settlement now is off and the would await word from Washington before bringing prosecutions under the federal labor law.

Pershing Hopes to Make New Tour of World War Monuments in France

After two months of enforced rest at the Walter Reed Military hospital here, he has registered such encouraging progress that he hopes to make another inspection tour of American World War monuments in France.

Byllesby Quiz Due to Politics, Attorneys Say

Claim Efforts Made to Dis- tract Public From Buckman Case

BRIEF IS PRESENTED

All ege Officials Tried To Divert Attention From 'Laxity'

Madison.—(AP)—Attorneys for the H. M. Byllesby company charged today that state investigation of the Chicago investment concern was prompted by political efforts to distract public attention from official responsibility for the collapse of the B. E. Buckman investment house of Madison.

Attorneys H. H. Thomas and San W. Orr of Madison, filed a brief with the state banking commission opposing the application of Special State Counsel William H. Spohn for revocation of the Byllesby license to operate as a securities dealer in Wisconsin.

Spohn, in a brief previously filed with the commission, requested the revocation on the charge that the company used improper bookkeeping methods from 1927 to 1930.

Probed Buckman Failure
The briefs of Byllesby counsel noted that Spohn and two others special counsel were appointed to investigate the failure of the Buckman company and subsequently they investigated the income tax returns to William M. Dineen, former secretary of the public service commission, and then the Byllesby company.

Thomas and Orr said in the brief: "The question naturally comes to mind: why should special counsel appointed to investigate a situation, badly in need of investigation, suddenly go outside the calls of their employment, to investigate irregular bookkeeping about which there had been no complaint?"

"We may readily surmise that it was deemed advisable in an election year, by certain gentlemen, to distract public attention from a subject involving numerous investors, where in public officials had been exceedingly lax, to another subject wherein official laxity was not such an accusing element.

"Political Bias"
"Not only may we surmise that such was the motive, but we call the commission's attention to the

Kennedy Denies Son Of President Helped Him Get Present Job

New York.—(AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, today denounced as a "complete undiluted lie" an assertion in a recent magazine article that James Roosevelt, son and secretary to the president, helped get him his ambassadorial post and helped him to become "the premier Scotch whisky salesman in America."

The article, by Alva Johnston in the Saturday Evening Post, dealt mainly with young Roosevelt and his career as an insurance salesman.

Kennedy commented on the story as he sailed for his London post. Reading the section applying to him he commented with a grin: "I admit I am the ambassador but I deny that I am the premier Scotch whisky salesman in this country. I do like, however, to be the best in everything."

Reading further in the article he added he never had bought "one cent's worth of insurance from Jimmy Roosevelt." He had needed nobody's help in getting public positions, he said.

"Kennedy," he said, "is able to get along pretty well without help from anyone."

Count to Answer Wife's Charges in British Court

London.—(AP)—An arrangement was understood to have been made today by the Court of Magistrates, Revettlow, to face a British court on the charges of his heinous wife, the former Barbara Hutton, that he wrote a letter she regarded as threatening.

Attorneys for the count and countless met in a private, half-hour hearing with a Bow street magistrate.

No date was set, however, for the hearing, to be held when the count returns from Paris. It was arranged at his request for an opportunity to clear up his wife's allegations.

War on Depression At Top Pace July 1, Roosevelt Asserts

Officials Burn Up Roads To Apply for PWA Grant

City officials broke all speed records Tuesday afternoon when the council approved the $543,000 city-wide street paving program suggested earlier in the day and in less than two hours after aldermen said go, Mayor Goodland and other officers jumped the Flambeau limited for Chicago where they were to make personal application for a PWA grant of 45 per cent of the cost today.

No alderman present objected to the paving program but some of them kicked up a row against the trip to Chicago and said it was a waste of money. However, the council voted 10 to 1 to send officials in an effort to speed the application in PWA. It was pointed out that weeks and even months would be wasted mailing letters back and forth ironing out details that could be settled in one personal trip.

A resolution authorizing the mayor and city clerk to borrow $298,650 to match federal funds, of and when the application is approved, was adopted unanimously. If the project is approved, all but an estimated $90,000 will be returned to the city by property owners living on the various streets to be paved. The $30,000 will pay the city's portion.

The program involves paving of 22 street streets will be surfaced with 37-foot pavements, 11 will have pavements 32 feet wide and another will have a 28-foot pavement.

Congressman George A. Schneider has promised to do everything in his power to speed the application in PWA. City Clerk Carl J. Becker, City Attorney Harry P. Hoefel and City Engineer Alfred Wicksberg accompanied the mayor to Chicago.

Builders of Ten Counties Launch Anti-WPA Attack

Seek to Have Government Projects Let Out on Competitive Bids

An organized movement to "combat the WPA" and put building projects financed partly by the government on a competitive bids basis began here yesterday afternoon at a district meeting of the Wisconsin Construction Industries Advisory council in the insurance building.

About 100 men, representing contracting companies and building trades units from 10 counties, attended the meeting.

Lawrence Koepke, Appleton contractor, was named chairman of the Outagamie county committee which has been set up to push the program toward its objectives here. Robert Connelly, county surveyor, is secretary.

A. L. Brauer, Manitowoc, was named district chairman at yesterday's meeting, the first in which definite, tangible steps were taken towards a unified program in this territory. The counties of Outagamie, Sheboygan, Oconto, Door, Shawano, Brown, Kewaunee, Manitowoc, Winnebago, Marinette, and Fond du Lac were represented.

Walter Geimer, Appleton contractor and a member of the county committee, voiced the keynote of the committee's aims yesterday following the meeting when he said:

"We do not feel the building industry should be the dumping grounds for relief. We feel that the WPA is taking work away from the skilled trades and competing with private contractors. We have proof that building projects can

Rebels Continue Drive on Valencia

Neither Side Gains De- cisive Advantage in Spanish Strife

Hendaye, France.—(AP)—The battle for Valencia swung today on both flanks of a 50-mile front in eastern Spain, with neither the government nor the insurgents able to gain a decisive advantage.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces held the upper hand in the coastal sector where they attempted to break through strong government defenses guarding the important Mediterranean port.

Inland, where another insurgent column was pushing east, General Jose Mija's defense troops were more than holding their own.

The insurgents' coastal forces were advancing slowly but steadily toward Nules, about 26 miles north of Valencia on the Castellon de la Plana-Valencia highway.

Fresh troops and heavy artillery enabled the insurgents to push back weary government militiamen to the Artana line of fortifications protecting Nules and the highway to the west.

Artana, only 28 miles from Valencia, is the point of an insurgent arrowhead. The base of the arrowhead is a line from Onda to Bechi in well-fortified hills where government forces still were resisting.

Farley to Appear at Fond du Lac Conclave

Fond du Lac.—(AP)—Assurances that Postmaster General James Farley would make a noonday appearance at the state Democratic convention on its opening day here, July 8, were received last night at an informal meeting of state Democratic leaders with United States Senator F. Ryan Duffy.

Thomas Millane, Milwaukee, manager of Senator Duffy's campaign for reelection, said today it was understood Farley would stop at the Fond du Lac Farley, which meets July 8-9, before a scheduled appearance the same day at the state postmaster's convention at Sheboygan.

The informal discussion last night of Senator Duffy's campaign program and the coming state convention was attended by James Concoran, state Democratic chairman, Millane, and others.

Permanent Solution of Jobs Problem Is Needed, He Says

DISCUSSES HIS AIMS Favors Study on How Sweden Has Met Its Problems

Hyde Park, N. Y.—(AP)—President Roosevelt gave the nation assurance today that the big federal drive on depression would reach full momentum by July 1.

At the same time, the president said, this country still is searching for a permanent solution of the unemployment problem—a solution that will not involve big expenditures for armaments.

Mr. Roosevelt, discussing relief objectives at a press conference late yesterday, said one matter under study was how Sweden was able to pay off the cost of a public works relief program, instituted during bad years, with funds accruing during more prosperous times.

The president compared that Scandinavian country's success in paying off works debts with the United States which he noted did not rid itself in the comparatively good business years of 1936-37 of the cost of lending and spending programs in 1933-34-35.

Near Top Speed
In the present $3,750,000,000 campaign to aid economic conditions in general, Mr. Roosevelt said all federal agencies involved were pushing toward top speed by the first of the month.

PWA, he asserted, was going ahead as fast as it could. WPA would have as many as possible of its recently authorized 400,000 new workers enrolled by that time, and the civilian conservation corps was nearing its 350,000 full strength. Other agencies with lesser programs were hitting a fast pace, too, he added.

Describing unemployment as a continuing problem, the chief executive said no country has developed a permanent solution of it. The only seemingly 100 per cent solution of keeping all employables at work all the time, he added, was to pile up armaments.

That, Mr. Roosevelt declared, is no permanent solution because it involves the manufacture of goods which do not reproduce wealth.

The president, who was busy today writing two speeches to be delivered in New York city tomorrow, said the wages and hours bill, which became law Saturday, was the most important act of congress during the last two or three years with perhaps the exception of the social security act.

Signs Flood Bill
President Roosevelt announced today that he had signed the $386,500,000 omnibus floor control bill "with some reluctance."

Asserting that it "is unnecessary for me to emphasize the importance of carrying on a large and continuing program to eliminate floods, lessen soil erosion, continue reclamation, encourage reforestation, and improve navigation," the president declared the bill he signed "is not a step in the right direction in the set-up provided for general government planning."

"I am in doubt," President Roosevelt said, "as to the value of some of the projects provided for, and it is unwise to place recommendations to the congress solely in the hands of the engineer corps of the army in some cases, and of the department of agriculture in other cases."

The bill provides for a 5-year program of flood control works construction, for which $375,000,000 is authorized to be appropriated. In addition, the measure authorizes $10,000,000 for examinations and surveys by the federal power commission. The bill carries no appropriation itself.

The flood control program would extend from the Merrimack river in the east to the Wilmette in the west and down to the lower Mississippi river basin.

Father-in-Law of John Astor, 3rd, Asks WPA for Work

Middletown, R. I.—(AP)—Francis O. French, father-in-law of multimillionaire John Jacob Astor, 3rd, says he is "down to my last $15," and that he is willing to work for the WPA.

He said he would do "a laborer's task if necessary, to earn a living for myself and my wife."

Spurning aid from his daughter, Ellen Tuck French Astor, and her wealthy husband, he has applied for relief.

The only two projects in operation are pick and shovel jobs, road construction and sewer laying.

Expect Election To Decide Who Is Republican Chief

Both Landon and Hoover Have Claim to Party Leadership

Washington—(P)—The congressional election campaign may determine whether Alf M. Landon or Herbert Hoover will be recognized as the titular leader of the Republican party.

Friends of the two men consider both have a claim to the leadership—Landon as the party's last standard bearer and Hoover as its last president.

Prominent Republicans in Washington said today that campaign activities of the pair should give the rank-and-file an effective yardstick for measuring the relative effectiveness of their leadership.

In some cases, one or the other may have his way about the nomination of Republican candidates. In others, state and county leaders may have an opportunity to observe which one demonstrates the most vote-getting power for party nominees.

Both Hoover and Landon are expected to make a series of addresses during the campaign.

Splitting With Hamilton?

Landon, who has been reported at odds with National Chairman John Hamilton, was expected to arrange his speaking tour without consulting the national committee.

The national executive committee, meeting here Monday, endorsed Hamilton and his campaign program, but did not discuss the question of whether Landon or Hoover should be recognized as titular head.

Some politicians have speculated whether Hoover might like to be the 1940 nominee, but his friends here said that for the present at least, he was interested primarily in party issues. The former president told a Boston audience last October, "I do not want any public office."

A few weeks later Landon said in Washington regarding the 1940 contest:

"I won't accept the nomination in the remote contingency that the Republican national convention should offer it to me."

Cool Breezes Help Keep Temperatures in Moderate Range Today

The ideal weather conditions which prevailed yesterday and today in Appleton and vicinity were jeopardized by a prediction of unsettled weather tonight with somewhat warmer temperatures tomorrow.

Cool breezes did their part today to keep the bright sun from boosting the mercury into a high range. The thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building showed 78 degrees at noon today. Highest and lowest temperatures for the 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning were 77 at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 54 at 3 o'clock this morning, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Maximum and minimum temperatures in the nation yesterday were at Houston, Texas, with 94 degrees and Sault Ste. Marie and Yellowstone at 48, according to the Associated Press.

colored tents. Only a few used canvas. Some leaned on the arms of attendants, but many were those who stepped proudly along as tall and straight as when they shouldered a musket three-quarters of a century ago.

The weatherman beamed on the reunion. For several days it has been cloudy and rainy. Today, as the anniversary program opened, Gettysburg was bathed in broad sunshine.

While the blare of military bands resounded across the famous battlefield in last minute rehearsals and khaki clad troops and national guardsmen marched in drill routines, the veterans renewed old acquaintances and chatted in their tented encampment.

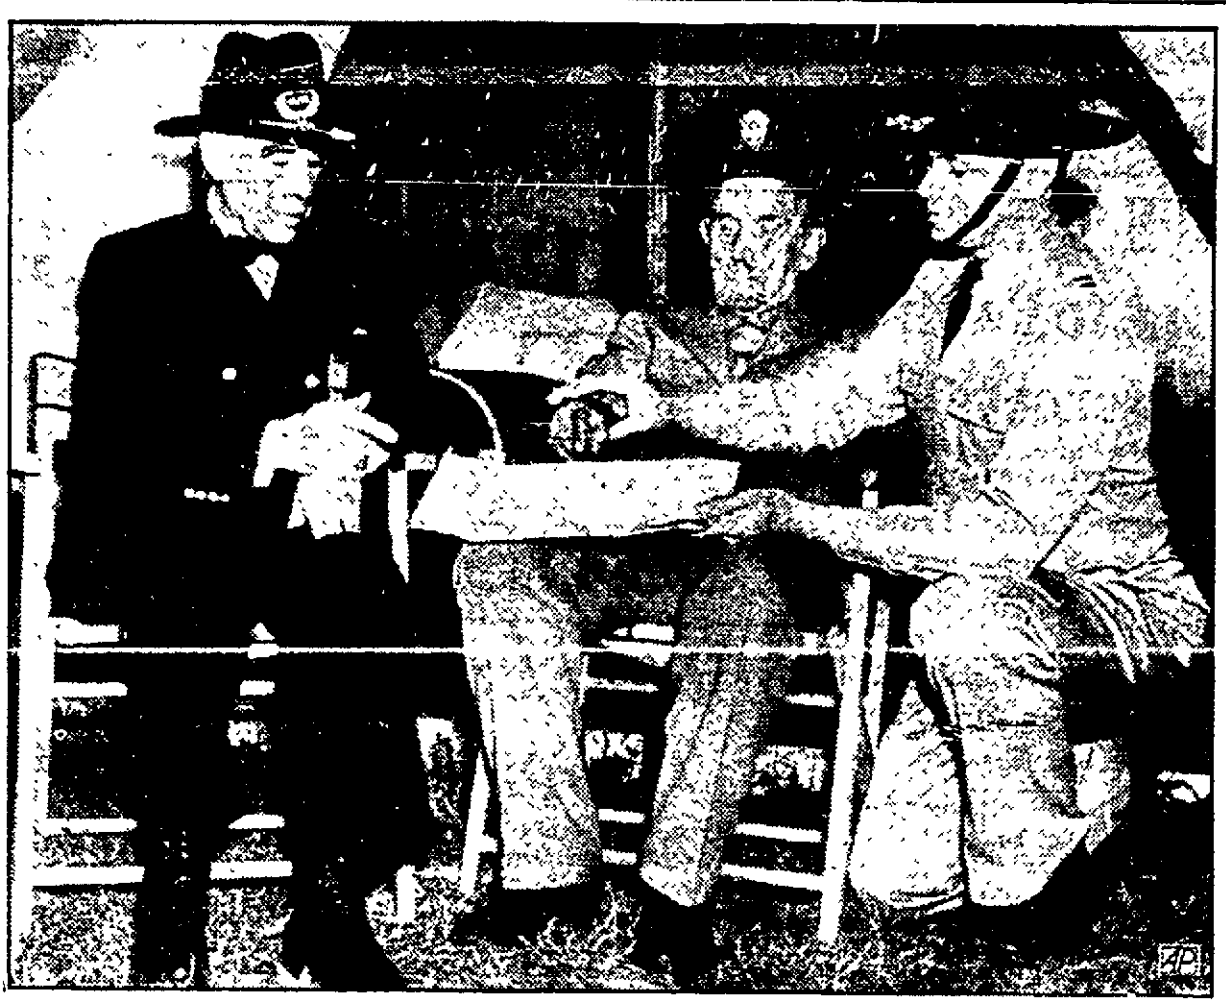

Today and tomorrow were set aside for state, regional and corps reunions of the old soldiers.

Canopies swelled over the grandstand of little white columned Gettysburg college, where Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, governor George H. E. Harris of Pennsylvania and heads of Union and Confederate veterans will speak Friday at a welcoming ceremony.

Sprightly at 95, Charles J. Rose, of Miami, Fla., one of the first G.A.R. veterans to arrive for the blue and gray reunion, amused "comrades" at an impromptu gathering with a jig and Irish reel.

But the dance, he said, wasn't up to par.

"I can't dance so good today," he chuckled. "It's not my rheumatism that bothers me—I've got my Sunday-go-to-meetin' shoes on and they just don't dance right."

New Yorker Asks G.O.P. to Attempt to Capture U. S. "Mass Feeling" of Faith

Indianapolis—(P)—Representative Bruce Barton (R-N. Y.) said today the "mass feeling" of faith—whether "well founded or ill-founded"—in President Roosevelt was "the controlling political influence of our day," and advised the Republican party to try to capture that faith for itself.

In a plain-spoken keynote speech for the Indiana state Republican convention, Barton projected a party campaign program which would accept the New Deal reforms deemed "sound," but would put national administration back in the hands of a "Republican party cleansed, chastened, re-dedicated to service."

He told the convention that to ignore the president's popular appeal was "blindness; to inveigh against it is political insanity."

"Give us a plan," the people cry. "Show us a picture," he went on. "Here, in broad outlines, is the Republican picture:

"We see a land in which no more great fortunes are likely to be amassed; a land where those who now have great fortunes will be

Fair weather with rising temperature is expected in this section tonight, with probable showers and warmer Thursday.

Senator Nye Far Ahead of Langer In North Dakota

benefit of candidates in primary elections, would fall within the jurisdiction of the investigating committee.

The committee's action in the North Dakota situation, he said, was in response to a request from Senator Nye (R-N. D.) that the survey be made in the "cause of clean elections."

Nye was leading Governor William Langer for the Republican senatorial nomination by about 15,000 votes when a third of the precincts had reported.

Object Not Explained

Sheppard told reporters that although Nye did not clearly indicate what use could be made of the information, he assumed the North Dakota senator wished to compare the number of absentee ballots with those cast in previous primaries to determine whether there had been any "ballot box stuffing" by that means.

Sheppard said meanwhile he had read a report by the Workers' Alliance, organization of WPA workers, on the speech made to them by Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator.

He said he would make a further study of the report and compare it with Williams' own version of his remarks. He added that he would discuss the situation with Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) later in the day.

Question Unanswered

Sheppard was asked whether the committee would regard speeches by President Roosevelt in the same light as the Williams speech. He replied that he was not authorized to speak for the committee on that point.

Personally, he said, he felt the president was "within his rights in making a general statement in addressing the country at large."

News reports had quoted Williams as telling the Workers' Alliance to "keep your friends in power" and to "judge those friends by the crowd they run with when they come to you and ask for support."

Alliance Transcript

The transcripts from the alliance, which officials said was taken by a volunteer member who knew shorthand, quoted Williams:

"We've got to stick together. We've got to keep our friends in power. I thought that speech Friday night (by President Roosevelt) was wonderful. I don't need to tell you. You know your friends very well. Just judge the folks who come and ask for your support by the crowd they run with."

In a letter to Sheppard, the Workers' Alliance said:

"We interpreted his (Williams') remarks as indicating what every person knows: that if we elect people to office who are hostile to a works program on an adequate basis, we can not expect higher wages or better conditions."

The letter, signed by Alliance President David Lasser, said WPA employees "are becoming nauseated" by contentions that the administration is "coercing" relief workers.

Williams' Statement

Williams, writing to Sheppard, asserted that "there was nothing political in what I said, nor were any political implications intended. 'I pointed out to them that in a

There has been a huge increase in espionage arrests in France in recent years. In the Strasbourg area alone—near the German frontier—there were 250 convictions on espionage charges in 1937.

This year such convictions have averaged nearly four a week.

Behind the government's decision to re-establish the penitentiary death penalty stands the famed detective (second) bureau with the assignment of smashing foreign spy systems in France.

The new move was embodied in a decree law which also empowered the government to forbid foreigners to reside within "a certain distance" of fortifications and defense works.

Conference to be Called on Plans For Third Party

Pennsylvania Candidate Makes Statement After Confab With Phil

Chicago—(P)—Charles W. Carroll, independent Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, announced late yesterday after a conference with Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin that a meeting would be called within a month to discuss methods of coordinating statewide movements in a new "middle-of-the-road" political party.

This meeting will be held in an eastern city, probably Pittsburgh, Carroll said, after his meeting with the organizer of the new National Progressive Party of America.

Carroll said Governor LaFollette assured him he would attend the forthcoming conference, along with key workers in his new party.

In a statement released after his discussion with the Wisconsin governor, Carroll said in part:

"Governor LaFollette and I have just concluded a very satisfactory conference on the subject of ways and means of co-ordinating the movements in various states where an interest has been shown in creating a new 'middle-of-the-road' political party."

"The LaFollette group as well as the Pennsylvania Pathfinders organization feel that the next logical step to take is to formulate plans in conference to the end that a standardized plan of organization be made available for use in states where independent voters wish to join in setting up a new national political party."

"To this end we expect to call a conference sometime within the next 30 days to be held in an eastern city and to make important decisions relating to this matter."

Solicitor General Accepts Monument From Finn Republic

Chester, Pa.—(P)—Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson accepted from the republic of Finland today, as an "imperishable" symbol of Finnish-American friendship, a monument raised to seventeenth century Finns who founded this city.

Dr. E. Rudolf W. Holsti, minister of foreign affairs in Finland, presented the shaft.

Holsti led a delegation from the Scandinavian republic which came to America in company with a Swedish royal party to join with American settlements in the Delaware river valley.

Along with Prince Bertil and others of the Swedish group, the visitors from Finland came to Chester to honor their countrymen who three centuries ago set up a colonial outpost on the site of this city and called it "Finland."

Jackson told the delegation those colonists were "among the foundation stocks of what has become a unique people."

"The colonists," he said, "have long lost their identity as a separate people and are merged with many others in the bloodstream of this nation—a bloodstream with so many tributaries that America may call most of the world kin."

democracy it was important for them to keep in office those who had their point of view just as their opponents think it important to remove from office those who have their point of view."

In its statement yesterday, the senate committee accepted Williams' disclaimer of political intent, but added:

"The committee feels that because of his position in the works progress administration the speech of Mr. Williams was unfortunate, and it hopes all dispensers of federal funds will take note of the obligation which has been imposed on this committee by the senate to report to the senate all such incidents as may be deemed to come within the scope of this investigation."

SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY

Glenn Frank, chairman of the national Republican committee on policy, will be the principal speaker at the Half Life of The Nation Civic celebration the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at Erb park July 2-4. He will talk at the park at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon following a luncheon in his honor at the Buttes des Morts Golf club.

Crucial Battle In Hankow Area Believed Likely

Chinese Report They Still Hold Boom Barring Japanese Advance

Shanghai—(P)—Chinese declared today they still held the important Matowchen boom, barrier to Japan's drive up the Yangtze river against Hankow.

But the trend of what may be a crucial battle in defense of the provisional capital, 175 miles upriver from the boom, was obscured behind cautious communiques from both sides.

Chinese, who earlier had acknowledged loss of one of several forts guarding the barrier of sunken, rock-laden junks, said fighting still was raging in the area.

Japanese would not discuss their brief war bulletins in detail and made no claims to possession of the boom itself.

Both sides issued conflicting reports of aerial warfare in the middle Yangtze river valley where the drive toward Hankow has shifted the main theater of the war.

Crucial Battle In Hankow Area Believed Likely

Japanese declared continued heavy air raids in the sector had inflicted new losses on Chinese aviation. Nanchang, important Chinese air base, was reported bombed again.

Chinese replied with denials of Japanese air victories. They asserted Chinese planes operating from Hankow were harassing Japanese river and land forces.

A flood menacing Hangchow, Japanese-held Chekiang province capital south of Shanghai, and nearby cities on the Chientang river spread when breaking dikes loosed heavy torrents.

(A retreating Japanese army, in reprisal against Chinese guerrilla fighters, burned the walled city of Hsiao, in Hopeh province 140 miles south of Peiping June 24, a delayed message disclosed.)

Loomis Will Appeal Decision Against State Radio Station

Madison—(P)—Attorney General Orland S. Loomis said he would appear before the federal communications commission in Washington tomorrow to argue an appeal from a decision denying night broadcasting time to State Radio Station WBL at Stevens Point.

The communications commission denied the state's application in January on the grounds that it would cause interference with other stations, would not serve the public interest, convenience and necessity, and that the station was not entitled to special privileges because it was not operated as a state instrument, but as a corporate legal entity. The state appealed from these findings.

In an opinion requested by Commissioner E. M. Rowlands, of the trade practice commission, Loomis ruled that the Wisconsin Telephone company could not collect for exchange switchboard and truck line service rendered the commission between July 26, 1937, and Oct. 16, 1937, when the department was out of existence.

"Since there was no trade practice agency in existence for whom such telephone services could be performed, there is no liability for payment by the present trade practice department," Loomis said.

The department was re-created in October, 1937, by an act of the special session of the legislature.

Goin' Fishin' With Dad? Then Fill Out This Blank

Hey, fellas, did you go fishing with dad over the weekend or maybe you're going sometime between now and July 5. If you did or you are, don't forget to measure and weigh your biggest catch and enter it in the Appleton Post-Crescent Dad and Son Fishing Week contest.

Any fish caught by a boy under 17 years of age while fishing with his dad any day this week and including Sunday and the Fourth of July is eligible to enter in the contest.

And what will you get if you do catch a big fish and enter it in the competition? That is an answer that will gladden the heart of any fisherman, young or old. The Post-Crescent will give the winner a real bang-up fishing rod and the Appleton chapter of the Izaak Walton league will give a dandy anti-backlash fishing reel and pure silk line.

Now don't get the idea that your fish has to weigh 30 or 40 pounds to be a winner, or even 10 pounds. Maybe a good sized perch or a 15-pound northern pike will win the contest, especially if boys catching medium sized fish don't enter.

The contest will close July 5 and blanks telling all about the fish must be filed at the Post-Crescent office by July 9. It is not necessary to bring the fish. The blank must contain information of where the fish was caught, what kind of fish, its weight, and the date it was caught. The blank must be signed by an adult not related to the contestant and the Post-Crescent reserves the right to check into each entry and to require an affidavit if this seems to be desirable.

Governor Denies Shiocton Robber's Plea for Pardon

Youth Convicted in 1930 Blames Trouble on Lack of Parental Care

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Curt Herferth, the 23 year old youth who robbed the Shiocton bank armed with a sawed-off shot-gun in 1930 and was sentenced two days later by the municipal court of Outagamie county to a 15 to 25 year state prison term, today was notified that his application to Governor LaFollette for a pardon has been denied.

Herferth was sent to Waupun on Dec. 17, 1930, after the robbery, which netted $190, on December 15. At his trial he pleaded guilty. He had a previous record of several convictions for burglary in Milwaukee county. Herferth was a farm laborer, and single.

In his application for clemency to the governor and the state pardon board, which declined to recommend executive clemency, Herferth argued that he did "not receive the parental care and guidance so necessary to a youth in his adolescent years." He was left an orphan at 12, he said, and after his release from the reformatory for burglary offenses he got in debt and found himself unemployed.

"Making use of the stories I had heard and the information I had received while confined in the Wisconsin state reformatory I decided to go into things on a big scale and so decided to hold up a bank," he told the board.

Now 29, Herferth will be eligible for parole in 1943, according to the records.

O. Haugh, Menasha. In the back row, reading from the left, the men are Boberg, the instructor; R. C. Lowell, Appleton; E. J. Brunner, Appleton; and E. G. Sonnenberg, Menasha.

Tuesday was the plea for clemency from Philip Bublitz, Waupaca, who was sentenced to state prison by the Waupaca county circuit court on April 26, 1937, for statutory rape, for a term of one to three years. Bublitz is 28 years of age and single. The offense on which he was convicted involved a 16 year old Waupaca county girl. He will be eligible for parole in November of this year.

Rolland Nock Named as Principal of Carrie E. Morgan School

Seymour Gmeiner was reelected president and John Wood was reelected vice president of the board of education at Lincoln school last night. Mr. Gmeiner's term as a board member expires in 1939, while Mr. Wood's expires in 1940.

Nock formerly taught in the ungraded room here and has been directing similar educational activities at Rockford, Ill., the last year.

Contracts of the Wadeford company, Chicago, electrical contractor at the new senior high school, and the Jackson Electrical company, Chicago, which did electrical fixture work, were accepted and the elevator, which had been approved by the Wisconsin Industrial commission, was accepted.

The landscaping contract of Abel and Lotz, Wausau, was extended to include excavation for sidewalks at the new school grounds.

Miss Eleanor Tredinnick, graduate of Whitewater State Teachers pick up again until August or September, it was reported today from the office of the Soo line.

The usual lag in pulp shipments during the summer and that fact that mills in this vicinity have accumulated big supplies of wood were cited as the reasons.

Seek Removal of Out-of-City Men From WPA Project

Council Acts to Replace Employees With Men From New London

New London — Action to remove 14 out-of-town men working on the Hatten Recreation Park WPA project was started last night by the common council at an adjourned meeting.

A resolution was adopted instructing the city clerk to inform the townships involved to withdraw their men from the project or official removal procedures would be started. To be included in the notice is the information that the city itself has about 40 able bodied men eligible for work at the park and at present is bearing one of its heaviest relief loads.

F. A. Jennings, park superintendent, informed the council that the WPA administration may add about 30 more men to the New London project within a month, providing an opportunity of employment to all eligible local men. Construction of the athletic stadium will be started in several weeks.

A previous attempt to secure a compensating sum from the townships that had men on the New London project proved fruitless.

City Attorney Giles H. Putnam at his own request was authorized to draft an ordinance prohibiting the picking of hickory nuts or wild flowers in Hatten Recreation park. He also was authorized to draft a new city ordinance to agree with the state laws on the operation of taverns and the sale of intoxicating wines and liquors.

The Methodist Men's team bowed to the Lutheran Team 1, 21 to 9, the latter running away with 15 runs in the first inning. Otto Pribnow tossed for the winners and Earl Frappay for the losers. The Rev. W. E. Pankow, George Urban, Art Lasch, Mayford Kopitzke and Walter Schoenrock hit all the home runs for the Lutheran team.

Winners of the hunt returned in the allotted hour from 8 to 9 o'clock with the following spoils: day-before-yesterday's Appleton Post, a pine cone, a white chicken feather, a mustache coffee cup, a needle with brown silk thread, a lantern, a saw oyster, a Canadian quarter, a twisted pretzel, the heart of a chicken, a teddy bear, and a picture of President Roosevelt.

The hardest to find? The Canadian quarter, believe it or not.

Shortell, city recreation director, and regular supervised Red Cross instruction will begin next week under Miss Evelyn Hickey who has returned from a Red Cross training school in Minnesota.

A total of 80 children have registered to take lessons, either to learn to swim in the beginners' classes or improve in the regular swim classes. All participants will be directed to one of the groups.

Twenty-six girls were organized yesterday morning, 12 in the swimming class and 14 in the beginners' group. Thirty-six girls who had registered did not report but these and any others interested in joining classes will be organized at 10:15 Thursday morning. Twenty-four boys are registered to begin Friday morning.

The swim classes will give children an opportunity for a free swim every day as the instruction days for boys and girls are just opposite to the free afternoon periods. All classes will start at 10:15 in the morning for pupils only and all members must be in regular attendance or suffer dismissal. Red Cross awards will be given for progress accomplished.

Boys' classes will be held on Monday and Friday each week, girls' on Tuesday and Thursday.

Postpone Action On Water Service For Cemetery Road

Aldermen to Make Detailed Study of Situation Before Next Meeting

New London — The acceptance of tavern operators' bonds was the reason for an adjourned meeting of the common council last night but the laying of a water line to residents on the cemetery road proved the real problem at the meeting. After considerable discussion the matter was held over to the regular meeting next week to permit a more detailed study of the situation in the meantime.

A new petition was read asking for water service to residents requiring the installation of 2,000 feet of pipe. About 5,000 feet will be required to accommodate everyone on the road. Petitioning for the line were Charles Kalwitz, Ike Thorn, Mrs. Lydia Laib, Martin Wing, Rueben Close and Frank Rusch.

To reach the next prospective subscriber, Alfred Millard, would require an extra 1,000 feet of installation and therein was launched an argument.

Wants Entire Line Alderman Emans wanted to know why the entire line could not be installed and others benefit as well. Millard, he said, was facing the cost of repairing his private well and pump and would have to repeat the expense if water installation was delayed by the city until next year.

Mayor E. W. Wendlandt opposed further spending, but quickly explained his position.

"I am not opposed to these projects any more than any of you and would like to see these people benefited," he said, "but we are working on a close budget and someone must put a check on the spending if the city is to break even at the end of the year."

Emans was of the opinion the city Light and Water utility could finance the installation itself and while this was doubtful the matter was held open to investigate the financial standing and possibilities. An early motion to grant the petitioned 2,000 feet of installation was defeated.

Wants Information The council is entitled to know the exact financial condition of the city and the light and water department, Emans demanded of the mayor in the course of the discussion. "I think everyone should know the financial condition of the city and the aldermen should know how it stands" whether we're going to the red or not," he said. "We should get a regular detailed financial statement from time to time. The report on budget expenditures to date was nice, but it wasn't complete enough." The mayor consented to approach the city treasurer on the matter.

Veterinarian Is Fined for Failing To Have License

Ernest Blackburn, Fremont, Found Guilty; Will Appeal Case

New London — "Guilty" was the verdict of a 6-man jury here yesterday afternoon after hearing the case of Ernest Blackburn, Fremont, on a charge of practicing veterinary medicine on April 16, 1938, without a license.

The decision will be appealed to circuit court, it was announced immediately by Attorney J. R. McCarthy of Shawano who represented the defendant. A fine of $25 or sentence of 30 days in jail was imposed by Justice Fred J. Rogers but Blackburn was released under $100 bond.

Appearing as witnesses in the trial were Dr. Vernon Larson of Madison, a representative of the state department of agriculture in charge of records; Verne Hinchley, a farmer living near Fremont; and Dr. C. E. Hammerberg of New London, who signed the complaints against Blackburn. District Attorney Paul E. Roman led the prosecution.

The state's case hinged on the payment of $4 by Hinchley to Blackburn on April 16 on a bill originating in August, 1938. The court set for the defense attempted to show that the $4 was to reimburse Blackburn for blacksmith expenses incurred by him while treating Hinchley's horse, but no evidence was submitted for proof. Testimony revealed the original bill was $9 but Blackburn dropped his fees because the horse died.

Practiced 35 Years Blackburn, who has been practicing unlicensed for 35 years, pleaded guilty to similar charges at Waupaca on Jan. 18 this year, but because he was ignorant of a law passed in 1935, was released without penalty on promise to quit practice until a license was secured. The statutes allow a limited practice without a license.

McCarthy told the court that application had been made for a license but the state representative testified there was no record of application filed with the state department. Yearly examinations for applicants were held at Madison a week ago. McCarthy admitted his client could neither read nor write but said efforts were being made to obtain a license.

The defendant has been listed in the Readfield directory the last several years as Dr. E. Blackburn, veterinarian, it was said.

Hear Address on Meet of National Industrial Board

Wickesberg Tells Rotarians of Conference At New York

A. H. Wickesberg of the Appleton Woolen Mills said a meeting of the national Industrial Conference board at New York last May devoted to the consideration of a program for coordination of government, labor and industry may be just a fleeting gesture or a decisive milestone in the history of America when he addressed the Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday.

He explained that the board was organized 22 years ago and served as the fact-finding agency of the war industries board and at the present time is supported by industry, finance, educational bodies and organized labor.

Mr. Wickesberg said the session impressed him because it showed important leaders in their respective fields, "men of thoroughly positive minds, representatives of very divergent segments of our social structure were willing and able to come together and there is a common thought that unless something is done, and done quickly, there is a possibility of a change in our national set-up which will destroy American ideals and bring suffering to rich and poor alike."

Prominent Speakers
Among the speakers at New York were Dr. Virgil Jordan, president of the board, W. A. Harriman, chairman of the advisory council of the department of commerce and chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railway; George H. Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive works. The latter two appeared in the interests of industry.

Representing labor were Phillip H. Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers Organization committee of the C. I. O., and Otto Beyer, chairman of the national mediation board. The Hon. Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state, and Donald Richberg appeared for the government.

Dr. Jordan said the difficulties in making for sound recovery and re-suming stable progress under the business and political system are more serious than the people have ever faced in this generation and are more serious than most people in this country are yet able to understand, according to Mr. Wickesberg.

Chance for Business
He quoted Dr. Jordan as saying, "This is the one country in the world today in which there is still a chance for business to preserve and strengthen the enterprise system and thereby save the free, representative political institutions and civil liberties which are inseparable from it."

"Houston declared no permanent solution is possible until people have decided upon our social order pattern; that we must distinguish between economic planning and forward-looking economy; that competition is necessary and that partial factual information is only another form of propaganda," Mr. Wickesberg continued.

Mr. Beyer pointed to collective bargaining as a form of cooperation between employer and employee. The speaker said Mr. Berle asserted "if labor is too high, goods cannot be sold. But there is a minimum below which the price of labor is the price of life. Labor, essentially, is not a commodity."

Sweeping Changes
"The next 15 years are likely to see some sweeping changes. Only elastic minds will be able to survive. This is not our doing. It is a climax toward which we have been heading for a generation. There must be complete national organization industry by industry. No one individual can deal with the kind of thing we are now encountering."

Mr. Murray pointed to the necessity of maintaining purchasing power, wage and hour legislation and the deflationary effect wage-cutting

5 GENERATIONS AT HIGH CLIFF

Joint Celebration Is Held at Kielgas Home

A picnic supper was served.

Ralph Dering of Kaukauna is employed for the summer at the Arthur Buelow farm.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Stumpf attended the testimonial banquet held on Sunday at St. Mary's auditorium, Menasha, in honor of the golden jubilee of Rev. John Hummel, pastor of St. Mary church.

The Sacred Heart congregation will not sponsor an annual church picnic this year and have decided to raise funds by other means to redecorate the church and make other improvements.

The Warner Spoel and Edwin Schultz residences are being painted this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bates of Sacramento, Calif., have announced the birth of a daughter, who was christened Esther Mae. Mrs. Bates is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schmidt of Sherwood.

Mrs. Fred Smith attended the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Mary Fessler at Sheboygan on Thursday.

Approve Schlafer Bid For Ball Field Fence

The recreation committee of the common council yesterday approved the bid of the Schlafer Supply company totaling $2,701 for fence to be erected at Spencer street athletic field. The recommendation will be considered by aldermen July 6. The Schlafer bid includes cost of the material and complete erection of the fence. Four other bids were offered.

Mr. Wickesberg Quoted Donald Richberg

"Just as long as competition persists between workers free to accept or to reject employment, and between management free to undertake or not undertake an enterprise, just so long as the doors of opportunity are open for free men to compete fairly in service to their fellow men and just as long as the government keeps the peace, establishes rules of fair play and adjusts impartially conflicts of self interest—democracy will survive."

INDUSTRY GRABS THE PUMP HANDLE

However much our American system may be the subject of slur or criticism abroad we have no sulkers in the house when it comes to making a supreme effort to get our ship of state off the reef upon which the captain ran her and into navigable water again.

Almost without exception business and industrial leaders believe the spending-lending program as operated by congress and the White House will be a failure again as it was before. Nevertheless, like good sports, they realize that the program has been designed by those who are, temporarily at least, in control of the government and therefore, presumably, represent the people's will.

When the nation has spoken in this legal and regular manner no one may hang back, no one may do anything but lend his full and complete assistance and support to the program, even to the extent of praying that he may be in error and success may crown what so far seems to have been demonstrated as an irresponsible program.

Business men know that the proper thing for them to do is to go along with the country wholeheartedly, bending every effort and exerting every influence toward the employment of men, the making of money, the payment of taxes, and the creation of wealth.

This may be more difficult than several years ago because the same plan then was something of a novelty in that America had never theretofore been induced to experiment with it because satisfied that the experiments of other countries indicated failure.

There is little faith now and more apprehension, which is very natural when our recent history is considered. That lack of faith and that apprehension are just as evident among workers as their employers.

There can be no question whatever that a huge spending program will make an apparent prosperity. But it cannot be a continuous prosperity if we are to have the sort of government, personal, opinionated and highly impractical, that accompanied our last experiment in throwing the billions around.

Today therefore the command is "All hands to the pumps." It is a command that has often been heard at sea when disaster was on the horizon. It will be obeyed today on land just as wholeheartedly as if those who heard it were passengers on an ill-fated vessel!

BARBARA'S DILEMMA
Barbara Hutton, of the 5 and 10 fortune, now realizes she made quite a mistake when she surrendered her American citizenship.

Denmark, to which she now owes allegiance, and England, where she now resides, are funny about this divorce business. They have a rule that a divorce is not a private affair. They claim that when a couple separates, particularly when children are involved, the nation is interested. The extent of this interest is to ascertain whether the cause for divorce is genuine and substantial or simulated and childish.

We have the same rule in America. But since Nevada set the standard few states pay any more than lip service to it.

Barbara is now satisfied that for one of her tendencies citizenship in a country that is kind to playboys and playgirls is highly desirable, and in the end it may be cheaper since, though taxes are sometimes doubled, buying one's way out of an undesirable situation abroad may be even more expensive.

Barbara's former experience probably misled her. She purchased a Georgian prince for a million and a half just when he was about to hock his raccoon coat and there wasn't another thing in his closet but an old buffalo robe. He soon tired of his job but, like a gentleman, kept the million and a half.

It is reported that Barbara paid a little over 2 million for the Danish count but when correspondents interrogated him upon the subject they were told a discussion of the matter would be vulgar. It would be a mistake to think the count was giving the correspondents the stiff arm. He was stating the truth. The discussion of settlements in a case like this is reserved for lawyers. A gentleman cannot discuss such a subject, cannot even consider that it is being discussed by others.

For a gentleman must never be vulgar.

Barbara somehow should get back to America where divorces are obtainable with a nod of the head. Then, if she wants to continue the pace she has set herself, the employment of a keen American lawyer is indicated. He could do very well by his client if he were to outline an agreement so that Barbara's payments be extended over a period of years, something on the installment plan. That will hold the nobleman at least until the installments are completed.

Politically speaking Barbara seems to be enthusiastically upholding Mr. Roosevelt's Neighborly Policy. At least she is spreading good American dollars far and wide.

INDIANA MAKES A PROFIT

Wisconsin's political activities, sometimes termed radical, are pretty much devoid of petty rackets. A Wisconsin resident pays taxes—and no fooling about that—but he knows them to be taxes in the purest sense of the word.

That is why we turn an interested eye toward our neighbor Indiana and inspect an item which Indiana motorists are required to purchase and use. The item, a handy little transparent holder, bearing a safe driving message, is employed to fasten each driver's registration card to the windshield of his car. It costs 25 cents and it could easily be replaced by a few strips of adhesive tape.

Ignoring the contradictory situation that exists when a safety message serves to block off a portion of much-needed vision, we are given to wonder about a state government that makes it necessary for its citizens to pay 25 cents—not a tax of 25 cents, but a "retail price"—for an item that should come at 25 cents a dozen on the open market, or that can be replaced with another item for a few cents or less.

Indiana has come up with peculiar exhibitions of political morals in the past, and other states "sell" items to their citizens, but the transparent holder is a case in point.

Perhaps a state can be justified in selling merchandise to its citizens instead of taxing them—and perhaps not. In Wisconsin, anyway, we prefer the more direct and honest method of the tax and let our merchants handle the merchandise.

JUDICIAL ELECTIONS

In a district comprising sixteen counties in Illinois was recently held an election to fill a vacancy on the supreme court. Illinois still clings to the antiquated political system in relation to its judiciary so that the Republicans and the Democrats each presented a candidate.

However antiquated the judicial machinery may be in the state south of us the people do not fancy electing a man to the judiciary just because of his politics.

In the district mentioned they chose the Republican candidate by a substantial majority although he had never held office before and his opponent had judicial experience. Analyzing the vote closely it is found that five counties in the district abandoned a political stand taken by them so late as the spring primaries. These counties were for Governor Horner but a few months ago. The governor appears to be rather popular in Illinois. But when the people found he was supporting the Democratic nominee for a judicial office they sort of got their backs up and voted against that nominee.

This trend in American life is an excellent one. It might be called the natural hostility of the American people to a political judiciary. It becomes evident in Illinois when Democratic counties insist upon voting for the Republican nominee. It becomes evident elsewhere throughout the nation, as in Wisconsin, where political nominations for judicial position cannot be made. It is evident in the nation where the President's attack upon the judiciary received in general a cold shoulder albeit the people might have been very much out of sympathy with several critical decisions made by the supreme court.

The people are altogether right in their distrust of political tampering with the judiciary. They have instinctively concluded that such errors as may be pointed out in judicial decisions are rare in comparison to the blunders made by political parties and for political purposes.

Their abhorrence of a judiciary after the Mexican, German or Russian models, even without bloody purges, is based upon something more than guesswork. Their attitude will bring them a much higher average in the way of justice and efficiency that is ever attainable through a conception of justice or the determination of truth and right between individuals as a problem for politics, political parties, primaries, conventions, or any of the numerous cabals inherent in the political system.

Opinions Of Others

The nation cannot be said to have hung with bated breath over the sick-bed of the Schneecoughing robin when, after twelve days of hiccupping, has just passed away. Nevertheless, it did get more attention than an individual robin usually does. Indeed, it competed in a modest way with poor Max Schmeling's injured transverse process.

The spotlight of publicity swings, indeed, in a seemingly erratic way. How many robins there must have been who ate caterpillars and regretted it, yet never got themselves into the newspapers! And how much human drama, sad and joyous, is played on the world's stage with

EVER SINCE that Republican judge was elected by something of an impressive margin down in central Illinois, I have been somewhat puzzled . . . not only was it a Republican who won, but he defeated the candidate backed by the Horner faction, which is the principal Democratic faction in Illinois, according to the primaries a while ago . . . the president had better include central Illinois on his trip to line up friendly congressmen and senators this summer . . . the darned idiots think that they can vote for someone not on the approved list, do they? . . . well, get right down there and show 'em what's what, FD, get right down there and show 'em what's what . . .

RETRIBUTION

Pickin' taters for her dad
Cuz I liked his daughter,
Haden't kissed her, wasn't I had -
Reckoned I had oughter!

Dimples in her elbow showed,
Sleeves rolled up 'bove 'em -
Thot I'd ask her if she knowed
I admired of 'em.

Let on like she hadn't heard,
Or she didn't mind me.
Least, she never said a word -
Dropped a bit behind me.

Then a Russet hit my ear
Or a mite below it.
Hurt like time I didn't keer -
Wouldn't let her know it!

Ketched her where the fences jine,
Kissed her while she fit me -
Till her cheek was redder'n mine
Where the later hit me!

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

ON THE BENCH

He did not play today . . . He sat
Upon a bench in the warm sun.
He saw his teammates at the bat;
He saw his brother athletes run.
The coach ignored him, to his sorrow,
But he will be out there tomorrow.

Sometimes upon the bench of life
We sit, and wait for a sign,
We watch, and long to join the strife,
The Coach is near . . . He is divine,
And He will summon us, whatever
The game, if Hope deserts us never!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, June 27, 1928

The nomination of Alfred E. Smith for president of the United States, probably on the first ballot, became assured Wednesday when the Ohio delegation to the Democratic national convention at Houston arranged to swing most of its 48 votes to the New York governor. Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas was the convention chairman.

The cornerstone of the new St. Mary parochial school at Kaukauna was to be laid at 3 o'clock the following Sunday afternoon. An address was to be given by Mayor W. C. Sullivan and Msgr. P. H. Lochman, pastor of Holy Cross Catholic church was to bless the cornerstone and deliver the sermon.

Arnold Herman, Appleton, a lay delegate at the North Wisconsin district conference of the Wisconsin synod of Lutheran churches at Hortonville that week, was elected a member of the committee for poor students.

Decima Salisbury, for 35 years commercial teacher in the old Ryan and present senior high schools, founder of the first high school commercial department in the United States and probably the world, developing it from a class of 6 to 365 students, had resigned.

The grocery store formerly owned and operated by Robert F. Hauert, corner of North and Lave streets, was reopened by Edward Falck.

At the annual meeting of the library board, George C. Jones was reelected president and Miss Carrie Morgan was reelected secretary. The report of Miss Agnes Dwight, librarian, showed that the circulation of the library for the previous year was $6,990, a gain of 1,659 over the previous year.

Lightning the previous evening followed a wire into the residence of R. C. Jones, Prospect street, and started a fire in the basement. The flames were discovered before much damage was done.

The earth is fertile with stories which would one every day if they had that touch of significance, of madness, sometimes of relieving nonsense which makes news. A nation swept with fear, a great disaster, or merely a cat up a tree, with the fire department trying to get it down—each is news, each gets our attention. And the wisest man who ever wore a green eyeshade can't always tell in advance what seemingly trivial event is going to catch on and make the audience sit up in its seats.—New York Times.

Personal Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author

INFECTED TONSILS

Aside from the risk involved in a major operation and general anesthesia in any case, victims of the tonsil and adenoid operation, if they recovered without serious complications, too often failed to experience any evident benefit. For example, removing adenoids had no appreciable effect on the mouth breathing, expressionless face and dull mentality the old timers so readily attributed to adenoid "vegetations" or "growth." Probably other conditions obstructing or restricting the breathing are more frequently responsible for such symptoms — for instance, simple chronic rhinitis, hypertrophic rhinitis (thickening of turbinates), faulty development of upper jaw and other bones of the face.

Some old timers still remove tonsils by the guillotine and snare method. Some dissect them with scalpel and scissors. Some "enucleate" them, that is, shell them out with the fingers and cut only the stem or root thru which the vessels, lymphatics and nerves enter or leave the tonsil. Some use local anesthesia; some nerve block (injecting the anesthesia into the stem or root of the tonsil); but most nose and throat doctors who learned their trade before the war still prefer general anesthesia. In view of the risks involved in general anesthesia and the risk of hemorrhage, general septicemia, or lung abscess following operation, tonsillectomy by any method is a major operation.

Six years ago I asked newspaper readers to vote on these questions: 1. Have you had your tonsils removed surgically? If so, what is your opinion of the operation and the results? 2. Have you had your tonsils extirpated with diathermy—electrocauterization? If so, what is your opinion of diathermy and its results? The vote tabulated as follows: Against the old Spanish method, 51; in favor of it, 66; against the diathermy method, 30; in favor of it, 286. I think that is fairly representative; fairer by a long shot than the biased views of doctors or specialists themselves.

Whichever treatment may be employed in the treatment of enlarged or infected tonsils, I warn the public against the type of doctor or specialist, be he merely an old timer or the most ethical quack of the day, who pretends it is essential to remove or eradicate every bit of tonsil tissue from the throat in any case of enlarged or infected tonsils. The truth is that no method is likely to be so thoro as that in actual practice, and as a matter of scientific medicine and common sense it is neither necessary nor advisable to attempt to remove all tonsil tissue in such circumstances. It is the focus of infection in the tonsils, not the normal tonsil tissue, that endangers or injures health. If this focus or area of infection is pasteurized, sterilized, disinfected or removed, that is the essential purpose of treatment, and the method which achieves the object with the least discomfort, danger, disability or detention from work or business would seem to merit the choice of well informed people.

Your Birthday

"CANCER"
If June 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 A. M. to 1 P. M.; from 3 to 5 P. M., and from 8 to 10 P. M. The danger periods are from 9 to 11 A. M.; from 6 to 8 P. M., and from 10 P. M. until midnight.

Failing to remember what is told you is due to lack of attention. So give heed to what is said this day. It might be well to anticipate a requirement, so as to save yourself valuable time. Physical comforture is a great help toward efficiency. You will have to use faith as an anchor to keep yourself from perhaps drifting into despair, should business complications arise. Many people will make the grievous error of not crediting other people with possessing as much sense as they have. Silence may by no means signify assent, this day, so it might be well to insist on a direct answer to any question you ask. It may be unwise for you to assume full responsibility in any matter of importance, this day, so make someone share it with you. Married and engaged couples, and those who are contemplating matrimony, should find this an auspicious day, for further financial transactions.

If a woman and June 30 is your birthday, you may make the mistake of confiding your intimate personal affairs too freely. You should devote part of your time, each day, to some form of social diversion, if you wish to retain your popularity. Your loyalty to your friends may be questioned, if you get into the habit of criticizing without ample justification. Missionary, social welfare, literary, dramatic or artistic work likely will provide the medium through which you may score a tremendous success. Your dream of an ideal marriage has an excellent chance of being realized.

The child born on June 30 may seem to its parents and teachers to be the embodiment of perpetual motion. A dynamic personality will propel this youngster along Life's highway until it is landed into a veritable bed of roses.

If a man and June 30 is your birthday, the ability to do a certain thing well is apt to land you upon

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — In 1936, drought. The wheat crop went to pot, falling so low that some had to be imported. It was nature's random blow at crop control, said many farmers, half believing themselves.

Buckety-buckety all over the wheat belt arose opposition to further crop control and the lid was off in 1937. A reasonably good crop was harvested, and in spite of a carry-over of 200,000,000 bushels, prices remained above the "dollar wheat" level through the fall and early winter of 1937-38.

As talk developed of new crop control machinery, farm delegations poured into Washington. No wheat quotas for 1938, they urged congress and the department of agriculture consented, although some able farmers and most specialists in the department of agriculture smelled trouble.

No restrictions were imposed on plantings for the 1938 harvest. As a result, 79,000,000 acres were seeded down to wheat, enough for a "calamity crop" of a billion bushels, with good growing weather. In mid-winter, prices began to sag. By the time congress convened last January some farmers were jittery. By February, when the farm bill passed, wheat had scaled off to 80 cents a bushel. It was already too late to control the 1938 winter wheat, planted the previous fall. All congress could do was to promise continued benefit payments to induce farmers to accept some control of the 1939 crop.

Big Crop, Low Price
Here is the situation. Normally the United States eats 650,000,000 bushels of wheat, exports another 100,000,000 and carries over in bins and elevators an additional one or two million. But this year a billion bushel crop is in sight which, coupled with 200,000,000 carried over from 1937, has at times put the market down as low as 70 cents a bushel, although it is higher now.

Under strict terms of the crop control act, wheat farmers expecting to share any further federal benefits would have to agree to cut their acreage almost in half next year, from this year's 79 million to 46 million acres. Neither congress nor the department wanted that job, especially in the present election year.

To remove part of the sting, congress provided just before adjournment that the acreage should not be cut below 55 million. Even with that, the country faces another harvest that may put 10 bushels of wheat in every pot and a stack of it in every garage. Instead of 200,000,000 to carry over to next year the country appears likely to have 470,000,000 bushels to carry over. That is well over half the national needs for a year.

Some bright spots are:
1—The prospect of 1938 crop reduction by rule.
2—Slack crops in parts of Europe. (Note—a billion bushel crop in 1915 brought whopping profits because of the war.)
"Benefits" to Farmers
How is the department to persuade farmers to scale down their 1939 acreage?
First—Farmers who comply with crop control regulations get 12 to 15 cents a bushel in "benefits" on a "normal acreage." That normal acreage is determined by what the farmer has grown in the past and what department experts think he should raise in the future if he is to farm well and conserve his soil.

Second—In addition to "benefits," complying farmers may expect eight cents a bushel on their "normal" 1939 crop. That is from the "normal" 1939 crop. That is from the end of the session.

Third—By a system of loans the farmer will be guaranteed a minimum of 60 to 86 cents a bushel on his 1939 crop if it becomes necessary for the government to store the surplus.

School Board 'on Fence' In School Fence Dispute

School board members were "on the fence" at Lincoln school last night when owners of property adjacent to the Carrie E. Morgan school recommended no fence be erected on the school grounds, or at best, one "that would not exceed 4 feet in height." The board took no action on the property owners' recommendation which was requested at the last previous meeting when they petitioned against erection of a 10-foot wire fence which had been removed from the Lincoln school to the site of the old high school.

The citizens said "we do not want any fence" because it would depreciate property, obstruct the view of motorists, violate a city ordinance prohibiting fences of more than 4 feet in height in a residential area and would be "near to desecration" of historic ground. Acknowledging the necessity of safeguarding the life and limb of school children, the group said a 4-foot ornamental fence would be acceptable, if deemed necessary by the board.

Appreciate Dangers

School board plans call for construction of the fence from the west entrance sidewalk on Oneida street to the corner of North street, the entire length of North street and from the North street corner to the east entrance sidewalk on Morris street. The school will house the school for the deaf, the opportunity room, the orthopedic school, grade pupils of the Second ward and administrative offices.

C. C. Nelson, 322 N. Oneida street, spokesman for the property owners, said "we appreciate the traffic dangers involved but think the 4-foot fence would prevent children from heedlessly running into the street after a stray ball."

Seymour Gmeiner, president of the board, pointed out the board would be liable if it failed to provide adequate protection for the children. He added that "Safety comes first."

C. K. Boyer, board member, said the lower the fence the more often balls would go into the street. In answering a query about providing adequate supervision, Mr. Boyer said "You can't expect teachers to control 40 or 50 children outdoors when one child, with his parents at his side, will dash out into the street."

Union to Vote on Firm's Proposal

Maytag Officials Offer Plan to Settle Labor Controversy

Newton, Iowa—(P)—Committee for Industrial Organization union members at the Maytag Washing Machine factory here are scheduled to vote tonight on a proposal of company officials to settle the labor controversy that has kept the plant shut down since May 9.

Text of the company's proposal was released by Governor Nelson G. Kraschel through his executive assistant, G. W. Kirtley, who announced the governor had submitted the substance of the plan to Newton union officials.

In Des Moines, Kirtley said the telegram from the Maytag officials to the governor at a Trout Lake, Wis., resort, read:

"It is the proposal of the Maytag company that the plant be reopened immediately and the union accept a horizontal 10 per cent wage reduction announced May 9. Factory to be operated 60 days without negotiation during which period analysis of wage structure will be made."

"Further adjustment will then be submitted to the union at end of 60 days for 30-day negotiation. If no agreement then reached, company will submit such further adjustments through arbitration."

Sit-downs have occupied the plant since last Thursday. Their number is estimated at between 275 and 450. The factory was closed when the union workers walked out in protest against a 10 per cent wage cut.

Prince Bertil Carries On Alone at U. S. Fetes

Philadelphia—(P)—The broad shoulders of handsome Prince Bertil of Sweden bore the burden of royalty alone today as Pennsylvania paid tribute to its hardy Swedish and Finnish settlers of three centuries ago.

His father, Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, lay in a New York hospital, ill with a kidney ailment. His step-mother, Crown Princess Louise, was at the bedside of the ailing prince.

The 25-year-old prince, thrust by chance into the major role in Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey tercentenary events, received the acclaim of his entourage for the sturdy "punch hitting" he is doing.

At Eslington, Pa., he dedicated a new state park in honor of Johan Printz, the first governor of seventeenth century New Sweden—a territory that embraced part of each of the three celebrating states.

From there the program called for him to visit Chester where the republic of Finland has raised a monument in honor of the Finnish colonists who founded that city.

Workers on WPA Project Uncover Old Reservoir in New Calumet County Park

Chilton—A subterranean reservoir has been unearthed by WPA workers on the bluff overlooking the old brickyard, which is part of the grounds of the new county park on Lake Winnebago. The workers were investigating a report that at one time such a reservoir had been in use.

One side of the brick wall has crumbled and fallen in, but a rather large space is still available and no doubt can be used through the WPA program. The reservoir is from 19 to 22 feet long and equally wide with sufficient height for a man to stand up, leaving plenty of clearance. When the 3 inch pipe leading from the reservoir down the hill was opened up, water shot out down below the newly constructed road to a height of several feet, indicating a considerable water pressure available from the reservoir.

When K. L. Schellie of the state's planning board, who had been consulting with the county park committee in regard to the development of the park, was informed of this discovery, he was very much pleased. He stated that this adds another feature to the park which he says probably has no equal in any other sections of the state for recreational facilities.

In this connection, the lower road, which has been under construction during the spring is now completed, making it possible to drive all the way through the lower section of the park. Many people, who had never visited this section of the park, have remarked on its attractiveness.

Some unusual fireplaces are under construction for the use of picnickers. Workers are rushing them to completion so that they will be available by July 4.

The park committee also is studying plans and discussing the possibilities for the erection of suitable bath houses.

Leaves for Connecticut

Cadet John Minahan, who has been visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Minahan, left Tuesday for Middleton, Conn., where he will conduct classes in swimming and physical education in a boys' camp. He will return to West Point in the fall to enter upon his third year.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Reinbold entertained friends Monday evening in honor of the birthday of the former. Dr. Reinbold was born in Chilton and has lived here his entire life.

Miss Caroline Marken, instructor of home economics in the local public school, will open summer classes in cooking and sewing, the school to be open to girls between the ages of 14 and 23 who do not attend high school.

At a meeting of representatives of the board of education, the Kiwanis club and the city council, it was decided to have a summer playground under WPA supervision, including a local director and three assistants. The director and one of the assistants will be under full time WPA employment while the two assistants will work part time under the NYA. Leo Dohr has been suggested as director and June Peik as full time assistant, while Alicia Hume and Janet Ortleb have been proposed as the NYA assistants. However, the decision rests with WPA officials. The playground workers here will be under the direction of the Manitowish county recreational supervisor, who will visit here two or three times a week. The workers will attend a two-day training period before starting. They are taught various supervised playground has been in operation here for a number of years, having been sponsored before this by the Kiwanis club.

The Progressive club of Calumet county met at the court house Friday evening. Attorney Walter Melchior of New London addressed the meeting on the formation of the new National Progressive party. Following the address the meeting passed a resolution approving the platform of the National Progressive party.

A business meeting followed and the following officers were elected: James C. Hallett, Sherwood, president; James Meuler, Chilton, secretary; June Peik, Chilton, treasurer.

Plans have been completed by the Chilton Chamber of Commerce for a picnic and homecoming on July 4 at the fair grounds. One of the features of the picnic will be a county-wide amateur show, under the direction of Marvin Hoffmann, band instructor of the public schools. Cash prizes will be awarded, the winners to be decided by a popular vote. The winners will be announced Monday night.

There will be a $300 fireworks display on the evening of the fourth. On both afternoons there will be horse races. Other features include dancing, a large carnival, concessions and various shows. The Chilton High School band led

F. W. Vanderbilt, 83, Dies at Country Home After Week's Illness

Hyde Park, N. J.—(P)—Friedrick William Vanderbilt, 83, capitalist, railroad director and yachting enthusiast, died at his country home here today after a week's illness.

Vanderbilt followed in the footsteps of his father and two older brothers in the railroad business, but did not attain the high positions in the Vanderbilt system which they reached, nor did he attract as much public attention.

He was thoroughly grounded in the science of railroading, like the members of his family who preceded him. He gained his knowledge through practical experience as a young man in the various departments of the extensive railroad system which the Vanderbilt family controlled.

He was a director of numerous railroads and other corporations. Unlike his father, the late William Henry Vanderbilt, and his brothers Cornelius and William K., he was extremely unassuming in his demeanor and mode of living and showed a preference for home life and travel, rather than an aggressive business career.

The third son of the late William Henry and Maria Louisa Kissam Vanderbilt, he was born in 1855. His wife, the former Mrs. Alfreida Torrence, whom he married in 1880, died 12 years ago.

Modified Train Service Has Commission Sanction

Madison—(P)—The public service commission today ordered the North Western road to resume daily train service, except on Saturday and Sunday, between Lancaster and Madison.

In a second commission order the railroad was authorized to modify service between Eland, Shawano county, and Rosholt, Portage county, to operate not less than one train each way three times a week from May 1 to Sep. 1 annually.

The commission last March had instructed the North Western road to provide daily service between these points.

Purchase Folding Partition for New High School Gym

Board of Education Reaches Decision After 5-Hour Meeting

A 5-hour school board meeting at Lincoln school last night culminated in a decision to buy a folding partition from the Richards Wilcox company of Aurora, Ill., at a cost of $5,040 to be installed in the gymnasium of the new senior high school. Dr. George T. Hegner and C. K. Boyer voted against the purchase.

Mayor Wm. C. St. Louis, who awarded the contract for installing folding bleachers at a base price of $4,450 and an alternate price of $4,454 if the partition was ordered in two corners of the gymnasium. The capacity of the seats is 1,050. Lyon Metal Products, Aurora, submitted a low bid of $10,500 for steel lockers and was given the contract.

General Office Supply company, Appleton, was awarded the contract for metal furniture at a cost of $1,805.93. Gloudehans Gage company was given a contract of $918.65 for window shades. Pettibone-Peterson company was given a $379.12 order for dark shades and Brettschneider Furniture company was awarded a $420.75 contract for venetian blinds.

Fears Mechanical Trouble
In voting against the installation of a folding partition, Mr. Boyer stated he was not opposed to a partition to divide the gymnasium but feared mechanical difficulties.

Herbert H. Helble, principal of the high school, said the soundproof partition would segregate the gymnasium so that two physical education classes could be conducted simultaneously and would be stored in two corners of the gymnasium when not in use. If folded in the center of the gym floor against pillars, they would obstruct the view of spectators in the upper tier of bleachers, he said.

A. James Lytle, Jr., supervisor of the WPA project covering landscaping of the grounds at new high school and remodeling of the Carrie E. Morgan school, reported there would be an excess amount of dirt. The board decided to offer it for sale if it was not needed by the city.

MILWAUKEE IS HEAD OF STATE VOCATIONAL BOARD

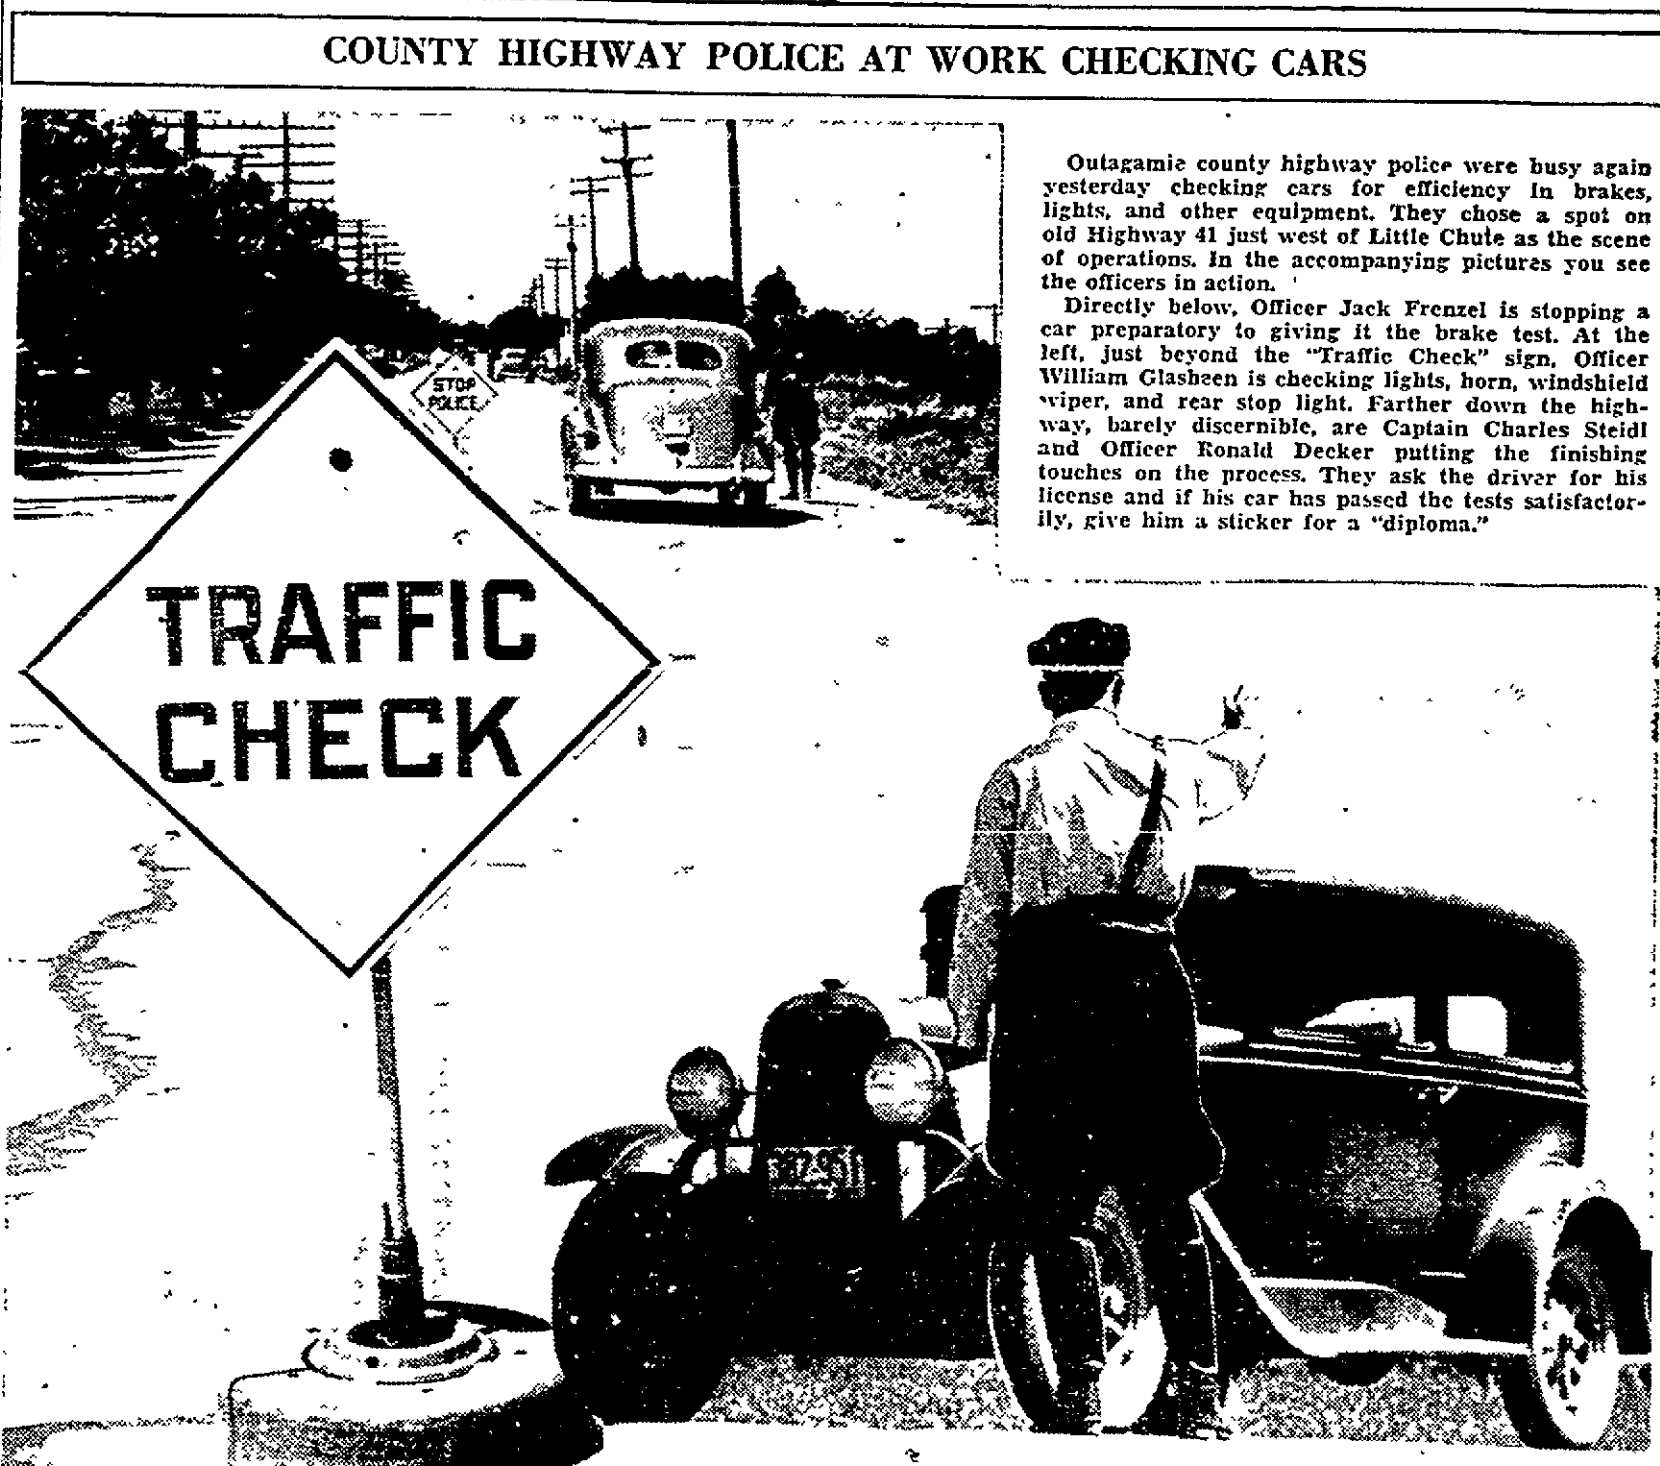

Madison — Peter T. Schoemann, president of the Milwaukee Building Trades council, today succeeded to the head of the state board of vocational education.

The board has 11 members. Labor, employers and farmers have three representatives each. Chairman Votta Wabetz of the state industrial commission and John Callahan, superintendent of public instruction, are ex-officio members.

Schoemann, who died recently had been a member of the board for 24 years and was president for 22 years.

Luke Jackson, 83, Dies at Manawa

Pioneer Woodsman. Village Official Succumbs At Home of Sister

Luke Jackson, 83, Manawa, widely known as a woodsman and riverman in northern Wisconsin half a century ago, died yesterday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lettie Pugmire, Manawa.

He was born in New York state Dec. 8, 1855, and moved to Wisconsin with his parents in 1868. They settled on a farm a mile west of Manawa and he married Miss Louise Cannaday, Oct. 7, 1880 at Manawa. Jackson was the first treasurer of the village of Manawa after its incorporation and was clerk of the town of Little Wolf. In 1906 he moved to Galloway in Marathon county where he worked for the Hatten Lumber company and was village clerk for 17 years.

Survivors are a sister, Lettie Pugmire, Manawa, and a brother, Frank Jackson, Clintonville.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Voss Funeral chapel, Manawa, with the Rev. Hugh Misdall, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Waupaca, in charge. Burial will be at Manawa.

Votes Bill to Exempt Bridge From Taxation

Hyde Park, N. Y. — President Roosevelt vetoed yesterday a bill which would have exempted a proposed Mississippi river bridge between Cassville, Wis., and Guttenberg, Iowa, from taxation.

The measure would have created a Cassville-Guttenberg bridge commission with authority to build one or more bridges and to operate them after their construction. The tax exemption would have extended to all bonds issued in connection with the bridge or bridges.

In refusing to sign the legislation, the president gave the same reasons he has used in vetoing similar bills — that he did not consider the tax exemption justified and that relieving such bridges from taxation would place added burdens on other taxpayers.

May Traffic Fatalities Show 17-Per Cent Drop

Chicago — A 17 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities in May was hailed today by the National Safety Council as another victory in the campaign against slaughter on the nation's highways.

There were 2,230 deaths in May compared with 3,120 in the same month last year. Despite a 3 per cent increase in travel, traffic fatalities during the first four months of 1938 decreased 20 per cent, the council reported.

June 1 the downward trend in traffic deaths had covered seven consecutive months.

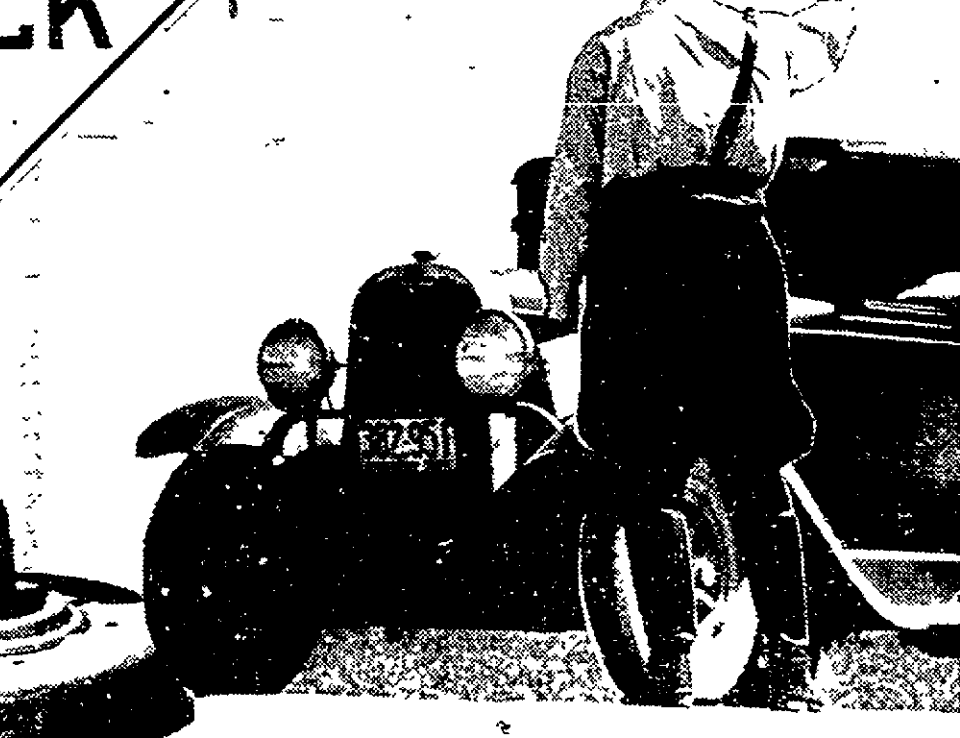

Sentenced to prison today for a minimum of six years.

The retired railroad bridge of a month and her sister, Alice, 18, were slain in the Kleckner apartment last spring.

COUNTY HIGHWAY POLICE AT WORK CHECKING CARS

Outagamie county highway police were busy again yesterday checking cars for efficiency in brakes, lights, and other equipment. They chose a spot on old Highway 41 just west of Little Chute as the scene of operations. In the accompanying pictures you see the officers in action.

Directly below, Officer Jack Frenzel is stopping a car preparatory to giving it the brake test. At the left, just beyond the "Traffic Check" sign, Officer William Glasheen is checking lights, horn, windshield wiper, and rear stop light. Farther down the highway, barely discernible, are Captain Charles Steidl and Officer Ronald Decker putting the finishing touches on the process. They ask the driver for his license and if his car has passed the tests satisfactorily, give him a sticker for a "diploma."

Post-Crescent Swim Pupils to Receive Tests Thursday, Friday

Instructors will have a chance to see how effective their work has been during the last 31 weeks when final tests for youngsters attending the Appleton Post-Crescent swimming school are given Thursday and Friday evenings at the Y. M. C. A. pool.

Ray Risch, physical director, said today that a larger percentage of youngsters have learned to swim this year than in any other year the school was conducted.

Parade of children who will take the tests was the object of a suit on file in circuit court today.

The Y.M.C.A. inaugurated the suit to clear title to an inch-wide strip running through the center of a lot on which the downtown Y.M.C.A. building is erected.

The action, necessitated by an error in a deed filed 40 years ago, names eight former owners, five of whom are deceased.

Ask Extradition Of Young Gunman

Easton Contends Slain Brother Killed Indiana State Trooper

Kankakee, Ill. — Prosecutors of Kankakee county and LaPorte county, Indiana, decided today to institute proceedings for the extradition of Orelle J. Easton, 25, to Indiana for trial on a charge of killing Ray Dixon, Indiana state policeman.

Samuel Shapiro, Kankakee state attorney, said he and State's Attorney Mark Storen of LaPorte county agreed at a conference to ask for an extradition hearing probably before Circuit Judge W. R. Hunter.

Easton contended his brother, Clarence, 27, fatally wounded the state trooper but Sheriff John Stack said two witnesses yesterday identified Orelle as the gunman.

Policemen who cornered the brothers on a farm near here Monday after their flight from Indiana shot and killed Clarence, and wounded and captured Orelle.

Dixon was shot Sunday night when he approached the Easton brothers as they sat in their car on a roadside near LaPorte.

A coroner's jury yesterday decided Clarence Easton "met death from bullets fired by one or more officers while he was fleeing from justice."

Franco Advised To 'Moderate' Air Attacks on Ships

Italy Approves Bombing Of Vessels Carrying Contraband

Rome — A spokesman for the fascist regime declared today that Italy had advised General Francisco Franco, the Spanish insurgent leader, to use "moderation" in his efforts to prevent British and other foreign ships from bringing supplies to government Spain.

The spokesman, the noted editor Virginio Gayda, said, however, that Italy approved of the bombing of vessels carrying contraband but disclaimed any Italian responsibility therefor.

In an inspired article in the Giornale d'Italia, Gayda disclosed the content of the conversation last night between the earl of Perth, Britain's ambassador, and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The editor said Ciano told Lord Perth that Franco already had taken a series of measures to give the British government satisfaction with regard to the long list of bombings of British ships, against which London has protested vigorously.

These measures, Gayda said were:

Franco's Orders
First, Franco had given orders that British ships should not be attacked while navigating.

Second, he had ordered that the British flag be respected as far as possible in Spanish government ports.

Third, Franco was willing to name free ports in western Spain (insurgent-held) where "honest traffic" would have free entry.

The Perth-Ciano conference produced speculations that it might bring an end to air raids on British merchantmen in Spanish waters.

Some diplomatic quarters indicated that Great Britain might have made a move to end the long-standing friendship treaty with Italy the price of continued air raids on her shipping.

The treaty, signed April 16, was not to become effective until a "settlement" was reached in Spain but Premier Benito Mussolini recently has sought to put the pact into force without delay.

Charge Politics Prompted Inquiry

fact that during the trial (Byllesby hearing) counsel for the company expressly charged that special counsel had been sent out to get political bait and such charge was not denied.

"The first move in this program to distract public attention from a very important matter was the inquiry into the income tax returns filed by William M. Dinneen. The dismal fiasco attending that effort is well known."

The company attorneys called attention to the convictions obtained in the Buckman case and said "that result, coupled with the Dinneen result, places special counsel in a position where they are hard put to justify their employment."

The attorneys contended editorialists in Madison newspapers were devoted to influence the banking commission against the Byllesby company and that Spohn had a hand in writing them.

They also argued state counsel failed to show any fraud or misrepresentation in the sale of securities by the Byllesby company and that loss to Wisconsin stockholders will result if the license is revoked.

be done cheaper under the system of competitive bidding and we want the counties and cities to put projects under WPA where contractors and skilled workers have a chance.

The 10 counties represented at yesterday's meeting comprise the district organization, the same which prevails in the state WPA system. Brauer will be at the head of the district body, which will direct the major moves of the various county committees. It is planned to have another meeting soon.

"This meeting is an outgrowth of one held June 14 at Milwaukee," one of the contractors said yesterday. "That Milwaukee meeting incited such widespread interest in the program that already contractors and building tradesmen in 32 states have followed suit."

A bulletin issued by the Wisconsin Construction Industries Advisory council lists objections to the WPA program and recommendations for alterations.

"We protest the method of taking men from all industries and dumping them into the construction field," one objection reads. "We suggest that after five years of day labor construction work programs, an effective program must be evolved by which men may find employment within their own skill."

"Political Threat"
Another reads: "We believe that the receipt of federal treasury pay checks by two or three millions of people at regular intervals create a great potential political threat to our form of government, because we believe these checks will create a permanent demand for disbursement of billions of dollars a year."

The language in the first recommendation is as follows: "We propose that WPA regulations be enforced or amended to prohibit public construction work which would normally be done by the local communities and paid for by local tax payers. Further, that all new public construction work under new appropriations be carried out by the WPA on a competitive bid and contract basis."

Vigilantes are Formed to Curb Traffic Deaths

Safety Observer Movement Claims Results in Fond du Lac County

Fond du Lac—With highway traffic fatalities and mishaps occurring daily despite rigid law enforcement, and with the public apparently immune to sound advice on motoring etiquette, safety council leaders of Fond du Lac county have decided to "do something about it."

Their answer, already bearing fruit, is the "safety observer or vigilante program." Idea for the movement dates to western pioneer days, when early settlers, banding together to curb depredations, took the law in their own hands.

Distinctly branded as an "educational" setup, Fond du Lac county's observer network had birth in the county safety council, headed by Pres. Howard A. Shields. Administration rests with the legislative committee, including Shields, Chairman Leo Promen, H. T. Hill, and O. J. Dorr, all of Fond du Lac, and H. S. Northrup, Waupun.

126 Vigilantes Work
After a year of planning, the observer movement was formally instituted in Fond du Lac county May 9 of this year. A total of 126 vigilantes are now on duty, charged with reporting of traffic violations to the safety council committee.

When in full operation, the program will have 500 observers, Promen stated. At present, 100 of the reporters live in Fond du Lac and the rest in rural communities.

Observer recruits from civic, fraternal, and other organizations, including PTA, Kiwanis, Rotary, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Moose lodge.

In a form letter dispatched to likely candidates, Shields emphasized that "it is obvious that with the limited number of traffic police throughout the country, that many traffic violations occur in which offenders cannot be apprehended. With this fact in mind, a plan of establishing 'traffic safety observers' is being inaugurated."

Observers, he stated, are designated by number, and are known only to the council committee. His instructions added:

"These observers are not required to appear in court. No one knows who they are, and the council feels that the fact that such an organization is functioning will make the people more careful and safety conscious."

Get 3 Warnings
Traffic violation reporters, armed with instructions and postcards addressed to the Fond du Lac County Safety Council, Court House, Fond du Lac, operate silently. Observing an alleged violation, they note the offense on the card, affix the automobile license number thereto, insert their code signature, number, state place, date and time of violation, and dispatch the card to the council. The latter group looks up the car reported, and sends Mr. and Mrs. Motorist form letter one.

Mildly censuring, the communication asks for co-operation "in this accident prevention program by observing all signs and markings and strictly observing the traffic laws and ordinances."

A second complaint against a motorist would bring him form letter two.

"As this is the second report we have had on your driving, we are again asking you to cooperate with us in curbing the loss of life, misery and suffering of the injured, and destruction of property. Further reports of your driving will necessitate our taking more drastic measures, as we are determined to make Fond du Lac county safe for both drivers and pedestrians."

Form letter three to an alleged offender warns:

It has become necessary to call your attention again to a traffic violation by you. Frequent violations, even though in a minor degree, show clearly that you are heedless, if not willful, in your violations.

The communication closes with the admonition:

"Seemingly only a prosecution by the authorities will change your driving conduct. May we have your co-operation in saving your own life?"

After the third offense, Shields' instructions bulletin said, alleged violators will receive a call from the sheriff's or police departments. "The purpose," he said, "is to seek co-operation from the driver in a courteous manner, and when that fails, other steps must be taken before tragedy stalks into his life." He is insistent that the program is educational, and that the silent observers are not stool pigeons or spies hidden behind billboards ready to leap upon passing motorists.

Promen, county service officer and chairman of the committee charged with supervision of the observer movement, said:

"Already we have received 113 replies from observers. Daily reports range from two to 15. Observers may send in one or more cards. One individual dispatched three cards, then included three paper notes with additional complaints. Another reporter has filed 21 information."

No Repeaters
Tabulating results, Promen declared the following highway violations, in the order named, have been most frequently noticed: Passing on hills and curves, driving on the wrong side of the road, failing to observe arterials, and "jumping" red lights.

Most of the offenders are men," Promen said. "And a high percentage of the reports emigrate from rural districts. A high percentage of curve passing was done by 'light' trucks, and not by pleasure cars."

There have been no repeat reports, Promen declared, on motorists who have received form letter number one. In addition, he held, in emphasizing that the program was successful, "unfavorable criticism" has been lacking. Recipients of council messages, he said, frequently write, thanking officials for calling their attention to a traffic violation.

He said that co-operation from the police and sheriff's department has been secured, that the Fond du Lac Association of Commerce aided in financing the safety council group, and that at least 100 motorists recipients of letters are invited to attend.

Cost of the observer campaign is borne by sale of safety council tags for cars.

With dispatch has the vigilante movement swept Wisconsin. Other counties utilizing the program are Brown, Dane, Door and Pierce County. Under way in Winnebago county to institute the vigilante setup.

New Lieutenant Governor Likes Office So Well He Is Serving Without Pay

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—After nearly 40 years of politics and office-holding, Herman Lewis Ekern, the newest member of Wisconsin's official family, likes public office so well that he is willing to serve without pay.

His appointment by Governor LaFollette to the state supreme court, Lieutenant Governor Ekern has taken over the suite of offices which the people of Wisconsin have provided for their lieutenant governors. But, since his predecessor, Honorable Gunderson of Portage, collected most of the pay for the job before he resigned, Mr. Ekern will have to perform the duties of his office—not exactly arduous—without compensation, except when Governor LaFollette is ill or leaves the state. In that event he is entitled to $5 a day.

To the plain citizen Mr. Ekern's position is an anomalous one. For the only real job which the fathers of the state government assigned to the lieutenant governor—historians say as an afterthought—was to preside over sessions of the state legislature's upper house, the senate. The legislature has long since adjourned, and won't be back until next January, before which the people will have an opportunity, next November, to choose a lieutenant governor.

The state's founders also provided that he should be a pinch hitter for the governor, when he is out of the state, ill, or dies. But Governor LaFollette has already had two vacations during the last year, and is in good health. Besides, during the last six months Secretary of State Theodore Dammann, by the constitution the next in succession, has been serving satisfactorily during the governor's absences.

Maybe the governor wanted a lieutenant governor to help him out in his job. But the appropriation to the executive office is generous enough to allow him to hire as many executive secretaries as he feels he needs. And he does.

However, if Mr. Plain Citizen were to ask almost any politician in the state, he would get an answer something like this: "Mr. Ekern is going to run for office in the fall, and wants a springboard from which to campaign."

To that, it may be observed, Mr. Ekern replies bluntly: "I have nothing to say."

Still, on the chance that he may be on the stump this year, some facts on Wisconsin's second citizen are offered.

Probably no other man in Wisconsin has been so continuously in the hurly-burly of politics as Mr. Ekern. From the day that he returned from Madison to his native Trempealeau county with a law degree to begin a successful campaign for district attorney four decades ago, he has been a figure of importance in the LaFollette movement. He has served in the assembly, where upon arrival in 1903 he was "dubbed" the baby member, three terms, was its speaker twice, he was secretary of the LaFollette presidential committee in 1908, deputy insurance commissioner, insurance commissioner, attorney general for two terms, chairman of the finance committee in charge of the LaFollette-Wheeler presidential ticket in 1924, chairman of Wisconsin's unemployment commission in 1931, and now, at the age of 66, is lieutenant governor of the state.

Once, before Phil LaFollette was old enough to run, he was the LaFollette choice for governor. That was in 1928. Fred R. Zimmermann captured the nomination.

Legal Career
Considerably younger in appearance than his years, Ekern becomes a state official at the climax of what has been a brilliant, and profitable legal career. Maintaining offices in Madison, Chicago and Minneapolis, he won a national reputation as an expert in the legal aspects of insurance after he left the insurance commissioner's chair in 1915. Today his income is rumored to be in the neighborhood of $25,000 annually.

Surly, reserved almost to the point of taciturnity, Ekern will charm no audiences as a public speaker. It is a fact to which some Progressives attribute his defeat in 1928. To some party men accustomed to the LaFollette oratorical fire in the Progressive campaign, Ekern's platform manner and delivery is a disappointment.

His quiet, modest manner covers a stubborn spirit which has carried him forward in politics, won him notice as a young man as when he defied successfully Governor McGovern's effort to remove him from the state insurance office many years ago.

Wisconsin has acquired a new state official, one who, if the politicians are believed, will be presented to state voters on the Progressive ticket within a very few months.

Democrats Will Name State Parley Delegates

Outagamie county delegates to the state Democratic convention at Fond du Lac Saturday, July 9, will be named at a meeting of the county committee tonight. Martin Unmuth, chairman, said today.

Under the system of representation at the convention, a county is allowed one delegate for each 500 Democratic votes cast in the last presidential election. Outagamie county will be entitled to 32 delegates and 32 alternates, Unmuth said.

Hollywood—A newsreel cameraman's life has more than its share of hazards. So has the life of an actor playing a newsreel. And a star, remember, is supposed to be "protected" as a valuable studio property.

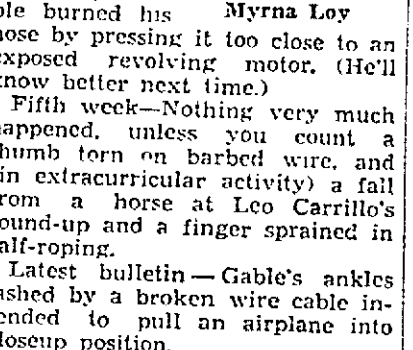

Clark Gable's record of injuries on "Too Hot to Handle" sounds like a plug for the picture's title. First week—Being thrown into a mud-puddle during an air raid on ruined Shanghai (back lot).

Second week—Gable and Myrna Loy worked continuously in "fog" and "wind" for night sequences. Result for Gable: three days abed with influenza.

Third week—Rescuing Loy from crashed airplane (supposed to flame with controlled fire). Gable and Loy—got scorched—because the wind blew the fire out of control, and the plane actually caught fire before they could escape.

Fourth week—Making a "newsreel shot" on an ambulance. Gable burned his nose by pressing it too close to an exposed revolving motor. (He'll know better next time.)

Fifth week—Nothing very much happened, unless you count a thumb torn on barbed wire, and (in extracurricular activity) a fall from a horse at Leo Carrillo's round-up and a finger sprained in calf-roping.

Latest bulletin—Gable's ankles lashed by a broken wire cable intended to pull an airplane into closeup position.

Costly Coat
But the one Gable tells about is what happened to his favorite sports coat. He was wearing it in a scene when Jack Conway, the director, had an idea. Gable, thought Conway, looked too immaculate after a long flight through perilous skies, and ought to be dirtied up a bit. So the prop-man sprayed him prettily with motor oil. That was when Gable began laughing.

"The joke," he told Conway, "is on the wardrobe department."

Because it's up to "wardrobe" to replace an actor's personal garments damaged in film use—and that coat cost $110.

Mrs. Abdo will see that there is plenty of dabbah pasha, stechi, and baba ganoji. All three dishes are old Arabian culinary customs. The first consists of Arabian egg-plant with nuts, rice and lamb. The second is unleavened bread.

Council Grants Licenses for 32 Menasha Taverns

Fails to Act on Application Opposed Because Building Is Near Church

Menasha — The city council failed to take definite action on the application of E. F. Dornbrook for a class B tavern license at 359 Chute street at the special meeting in the city hall Tuesday night although members of the First Congregational church congregation presented a petition with 200 names against the tavern and appeared in person, although M. F. Crowley appeared for Mr. Dornbrook and although Andy Borenz, who formerly operated the Palm Garden at that address, appeared to "defend his good name."

The council did approve 32 applications for class B licenses. They also granted H. F. Merrill, 222 Washington street, a permit to sell beer only and granted Alfred J. Hueth, 286 Tayco street, a similar permit although they denied his application for a liquor license. The application of Gust Jacobs for a class B license at 287 Tayco street was denied as the council has refused previous applications for a tavern at that address.

Long Session
The meeting started out to be a 30-minute session but ended only after two and one-half hours, much of which was filled with argument. After the council apparently had wound up all business and was about to adjourn, Attorney Arnold Cane requested permission to speak for five minutes on behalf of Ed Gollner who has twice had applications for a tavern permit refused, although he had no application in for consideration last night.

Cane explained that Gollner had purchased the frame building from the city at the old high school site with intention of placing a tavern in the Fourth ward and that he had made all of his plans before the council passed the ordinance limiting the number of taverns in the city to 35. Mayor Jensen pointed out that he could apply at any time that there were fewer taverns than 35 but that the council could not go around changing the ordinance. Alderman Grode said that Gollner had had two meetings with the council but at those had indicated that he intended to start a grocery store.

Cane asked for some consideration of Gollner's case in view of the circumstances but instead got a motion by Alderman John R. Scanlon to raise the license fee for 1939-1940 to $225, an increase of $100. Some of the aldermen expressed themselves in favor of hiking the fee to $500 but the motion lost with Aldermen Oberweiser, Scanlon, Eckrich and O'Brien favoring an increase.

Wants Increase
Alderman Zeininger pointed out after the vote that he was in favor of raising the fee but thought that it should be talked over and given some consideration so that a decent figure could be set. He declared that increasing the fee would improve the quality of the taverns of the city.

The argument over granting a permit to E. F. Dornbrook at 359 Chute street started after the council took a recess to hear any objections. John D. Michie pointed out that the congregation had no personal motives in the case but that the rear of the tavern in close proximity to the church parlors was an eyesore. The social parlors are used six evenings a week, Michie said.

The Rev. W. A. Jacobs, pastor of the First Congregational church, declared that the church was making its plea not on the law but on the cause of common decency. Several of the aldermen suggested that the church officials and Mr. Dornbrook could reach a compromise if the owner would agree to remedy the conditions which have caused the protest. The church representatives said that they would not compromise.

Near Church
The rear of the tavern is within 20 feet of the church social parlors. Mops, pails, and rubbish are placed outdoors there and an electric sign is kept lighted there. The hand of a sign with the letters "Palm Garden" points to the church. Some of the aldermen questioned whether it was good business to leave the place stand idle by refusing a permit, but Mr. Michie pointed out that the state law requires two exits so that the rear door of the place cannot be closed to eliminate the nuisance, and that the bankruptcy of the last tavern operator there showed a lack of patronage. He said there would be no reason to believe the building stood idle or some one went in.

Andy Borenz, operator of the Palm Garden, rose to defend himself. He challenged Mr. Jacobs or Mr. Michie to say that "one thing took place there that wasn't right up to snuff." The mayor accepted that challenge and the discussion grew heated, ending when the mayor called the council to order again smothering the glass top of the desk as he did so.

Alderman Grode said that he had talked with the owner and could not see how conditions can be eliminated. He also declared that there were too many taverns in town and moved that the application be rejected.

Speaks of Investment
M. F. Crowley then secured permission to speak for Mr. Dornbrook and followed with many minutes of complicated legal terms. His argument boiled down to the point that he represented a taxpayer who had a considerable investment and that the council should not do harm to that investment. He pointed out that the church was a charitable institution.

Mayor Jensen turned the floor over to Mr. Jacobs who pointed out that the congregation had $100,000 invested in a building even though they were a charitable organization and that there were 500 taxpayers in the congregation, some of whom were influential taxpayers.

Both groups interrupted each other regularly during the argument. Mr. Crowley stated that he represented one individual while the council represented some 9,000. The Rev. Mr. Jacobs pointed out that his group represented 500 and a principle and that the 9,000 would sit in judgement on the council.

Mayor Jensen attempted to call the council back to session when the argument got heavy but Crowley insisted that he had the floor. The mayor removed his coat in a belligerent manner while Crowley talked on. Police Chief Alex Slomski laid a restraining hand on the former city attorney and told him that the council was back in session, after which quiet prevailed.

See Compromise
Alderman Grode asked whether the council was to set aside the petition of 200 citizens and Alderman Scanlon said that he would rather see the matter set aside in hope of a compromise. The council finally returned to Grode's motion to reject the application but voted the motion down. Aldermen Grode, Karrow, Scanlon and O'Brien were in favor of turning the application down. Alderman Michalkiewicz was absent. After voting "no," several of the aldermen explained that they were voting that way in hopes that a compromise could be reached.

Mayor Jensen then asked the council what they intended to do if the Kurbstore asked for a liquor permit. The council finally agreed to act on all other permits except Mr. Dornbrook's, setting that aside for future consideration. The other class B applications were then approved by Alderman Grode voting "No."

The council also approved a bowling alley license for C. A. Hendy, pool room license for Ciske brothers, 24 operator's permits and several beverage licenses other than tavern. They included: William Chudacoff and H. F. Merrill, class A wholesale to M. J. Zielinski, and class A intoxicating liquors to Twin City Liquor store and R. C. Bridges.

Report Theft of $10 At Menasha Grocery

Menasha — The theft of $10 in change from one of the cash registers at the Chudacoff grocery, 182 Main street, last night was reported this morning by William Chudacoff, proprietor, according to Police Chief Alex Slomski.

Patrolman Joe Ruppel on his beat at 9:45 last night found a rear door at the grocery open. He called Chudacoff who came down and locked the place up without checking whether there was anything missing.

The loss was discovered this morning. Chudacoff said the door was locked and barred when the store closed Tuesday afternoon. There were no signs that anyone gained entrance from the outside, according to Police Chief Slomski, which leads to the theory that someone may have been locked inside the store.

Purchase Trucks To Provide Work For WPA Workmen

Machines Will Eliminate Necessity of Laying Off Part of Crews

Menasha — To continue the WPA projects in the city without laying an, men off, the city council at a special meeting at the city hall Tuesday night voted to purchase two second-hand trucks and also to advertise for 4,600 feet of sewer pipe in various sizes. Mayor Jensen pointed out that the city has men available on WPA but no equipment and that the equipment was necessary immediately.

A motion by Alderman Scanlon to have the mayor appoint a committee to buy two used trucks at not more than $150 each was approved. The committee was asked to work with John Jedwabny, assistant secretary to the water and light commission, in making the purchase as Mr. Jedwabny has had much experience with trucks.

The advertisement for sewer pipe includes some 600 feet for Konecma street. The council also voted to authorize the board of public works to start proceedings for land installation of sidewalk on Konecma street from Third street to Plank road.

Stop Signs
Installation of arterial highway stop signs by the street superintendent was authorized at three intersections by the council. Alderman O'Brien pointed out that stop signs were needed at Second and Manitowoc street where an accident occurred Sunday afternoon.

Alderman C. J. Oberweiser declared that signs were also needed at Milwaukee street and Broad street where a warehouse cut the visibility and Alderman Eckrich suggested that signs were needed at the intersection of Manitowoc, Third and Frank roads. All were included in the resolution, although Alderman Grode questioned what good they could do. Alderman Sauter said that he thought that the stop signs should be placed on Second street rather than Manitowoc street as otherwise the street might become a speed trap in front of the Jefferson school.

The question of road oil purchase resulted in further argument by the council and the mayor. Alderman Scanlon moved that they purchase a carload of road oil immediately from the Scotch Oil company, Madison, following the agreement made by the street committee. His motion was seconded by Alderman Sauter.

Better Price
Alderman Oberweiser pointed out that prices had dropped and that the council might be able to secure a better price than the last purchase. The mayor asked why the council had rejected all bids the first time they were asked for an indicated that it was because the Standard Oil company was one of the high bidders.

Alderman Sauter wanted to know if some one was "trying to put me on the hot seat?" After several minutes of discussion the council voted to purchase one carload of oil from the Scotch company immediately. The first carload purchased by the city was from the Standard Oil company. Prices submitted by the two companies were very much in line.

The mayor wanted to know who told R. C. Bridges to stop work on the building he has moved from Main street to Center street. He pointed out that the man had lost a month's rent and that the city was in need of two low-rent homes for relief cases. City Attorney Edward C. McKenzie said that he had conferred with Mr. Bridges several times and told him to apply for a certificate of occupancy. The council finally voted to tell Mr. Bridges to go ahead with the building in accordance with the instructions from the city attorney. The council then adjourned.

Neenah Council Will Seek Grant From PWA to Erect Swimming Pool and Beach

Neenah — Aid from the public works administration will be sought by the city council in building the $100,000 swimming pool and bathing beach, it was decided at an adjourned meeting of the council last night at the city hall.

With the approval of the two donors who will contribute a valuable piece of lakeshore property and more than $50,000, toward the swimming pool and beach project, Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs and City Clerk H. S. Zemlock Saturday made a preliminary investigation of the possibility of securing assistance from the recent PWA appropriation. The mayor told the council. The two city officials conferred with PWA officials at Green Bay.

Following the mayor's report, the council voted to secure temporary sketches of the project from the architects and submit them to PWA officials for approval.

Favors Grant
Mayor Kalfahs told the council, "I can see no reason why we shouldn't avail ourselves of a PWA grant, which would mean that we either would get more for our $25,000, the city's share toward the project, or spend less and get as much."

Obtaining aid from PWA would not delay starting of construction on the project, the mayor pointed out. By the time the architects have completed drawing the plans and specifications, PWA approval or denial would be made, Mayor Kalfahs said. He pointed out that the president signed the bill for the recent appropriation, 21 projects which were submitted after the bill became law had been granted aid. He also pointed out that the swimming pool is the type of project for which PWA is granting aid.

Clerk Zemlock informed the council that under the PWA arrangement, private contracts would be let and that labor would be used when available, laborers being drawn from relief rolls and borderline cases, the clerk said. He added that the Neenah-Menasha sewage plant and the Menasha High school were built under PWA.

Other Projects
The mayor explained to the council that other projects were considered when the recent appropriation was made, such as repaving E. Wisconsin avenue, an addition to McKinley school and building a second bridge across the Fox river.

"Before plans, estimates and other matters necessary to apply for aid could be arranged, it would be too late and there would be a chance of the appropriation being exhausted according to the rate by which the grants are being distributed," the mayor said.

Kalfahs told the council that the matter was taken up with the two donors who, after considering it, said it would be all right with them.

Final plans for the swimming pool and beach currently are being drawn by the Thomas Tal-madge Architectural company, Chicago. Plans and specifications will not be ready for at least a month, but when they are, the council will advertise for bids.

The recreational center will be built on the old Arneemann property on the shore of Lake Winnebago, south of the present municipal bathing beach on S. Park avenue.

At the last meeting of the council, the aldermen approved revised plans and instructed the architects to draw final plans. The revised plans include a change in the construction of the Olympic style swimming pool, bath houses, community building and children's wading pool.

Two Sections
The swimming pool will be composed of two sections, the main section being 165 feet long and 42 feet wide which will be primarily for swimming, while a second section, jutting outward on the west side of the main pool, will be for diving purposes and will be 60 feet long and 26 feet wide. The main section will have a graduated depth of from three feet at one end to 5 1/2 feet in the center and then to three feet at the other end. In the diving section, the pool will be 12 feet deep around the edges and rising to eight feet at the center. Original plans called for only one section 165 feet long and 50 feet wide with a graduated depth of from three feet at one end to 12 feet at the other.

The revised plans also call for transferring of the children's wading pool from a location northeast of the pool to a location near the women's bathhouse. It will be 30 feet long and 20 feet wide.

Another feature of the revised plans include a community house with special apartments for men and women and which can be used throughout the year. The community house will consist of two floors and will be well equipped.

It Is Said --

That although the argument grew heavy at times at the Menasha council meeting Tuesday evening, John Michie, a genuine Scotchman, broke the tenseness with a joke. He and M. F. Crowley, attorney for Mr. Dornbrook in the tavern license discussion, were having a bit of a discussion. "Will you accept that?" Crowley asked, referring to a statement he had made. "Sure, I'll accept that," Michie said. "I'm a Scotchman. I'll accept anything."

Aldermen Speed Development of Congress Place

First Ward Area Will Get Street, Sidewalks And Gutters

Neenah—That development of Congress place, the most recent plat added to the map of Neenah, can progress and that property owners can start building up the First ward area, the city council at an adjourned meeting at the city hall last night voted to immediately start construction on a street, curbs and gutters and sidewalks. A sewer already has been installed.

Alderman Carl E. Loehning, chairman of the committee on streets, bridges and sidewalks, made the motion when he reported that 30 WPA workers would be transferred from sewer jobs to the city's sidewalk repair and building project July 8.

The alderman pointed out that the property owners on Congress place are eager to start building houses. Houses to be built will be restricted in cost to not less than $5,000 and a setback of 10 feet would be required in order to provide a double lane of trees along each sidewalk. The three principal owners and the two minor owners have joined in a cooperative plan to landscape the street. The three principal owners are S. F. Shattuck, Max Schalk and Frank Durheim.

Gravel Fill

Alderman Andrew Andersen suggested to the council that property owners be required to pay for gravel fill for sidewalks which are being constructed in the city's sidewalk building and repair program. He pointed out that since the people are getting WPA aid to offset the cost of labor, they should at least relieve the city's burden of furnishing the gravel. The committee on public improvements was instructed to consider the matter and submit a report at the next meeting.

Although the council took no official action on the ordinance for adopting a 50-foot width for Lake street, it was reported that the aldermen had agreed at a meeting that the 50-foot width would be adopted and that 5-foot sidewalks would be constructed. In order to correspond with the statutes, action will be taken at the next regular meeting of the council.

Height of Shrubbery

Restricting the height of shrubbery by ordinance in order to eliminate a traffic hazard was discussed at the meeting. Alderman Emil C. Harder suggested that an ordinance be adopted limiting the height of shrubbery on corner lots where the view of intersections for motorists is obstructed. The matter was referred to the committee on ordinance and printing and the committee was instructed to confer with City Attorney John W. O'Leary in order to draw up such an ordinance and report at the next meeting. Aldermen pointed out that there are several intersections in the city where dangerous traffic hazards exist because shrubbery on corner lots is too high.

Upon the request of Dr. J. M. Donovan, president of the park board, who asked the council appropriate between $75 and $100 for dredging out the lagoon in Shattuck park, the council instructed the committee on parks and public buildings to investigate the condition of the lagoon and also voted to give the committee power to act if it determined it feasible to dredge the waterway.

Suggests Dredging

Dr. Donovan informed the council that the lagoon was filled with weeds and about four or five feet of mud. He said that the park board's budget is not large enough to provide for such an expenditure, but, he added, the city could save money by employing an Oshkosh dredge which already is in this vicinity to do the work. The work will require about a day and will not have to be done again for at least seven or eight years.

The dentist informed the council that the water in the lagoon is stagnant. He said the lagoon is used by small boats for mooring for a limited amount of time and he pointed out that the condition of the lagoon will not favorably advertise Neenah to visit yachtsmen and visitors during the two sail boat regattas which will be held here this summer.

Alderman Robert Martens wanted the council to fill the lagoon and do away with it entirely, declaring that it was unhealthful, but it was pointed out that it wasn't possible and that anyway the city is obligated to keep the lagoon and the rest of the park in proper condition as provided in the grant.

Repair of Crossings

Upon the motion of Alderman Carl E. Loehning, the council instructed City Clerk H. S. Zemlock to inform the North Western and So. Line railroad companies that the city demands immediate action in repairing the crossing on N. Commercial street near the Neenah Paper company City Engineer A. G. Prunuske reported to the council that he had given the two companies estimates on the cost of repairing the rough crossing.

The council voted to purchase an automatic traffic checker to be used in determining the amount of traffic passing over Neenah's lone bridge spanning the Fox river, the information to be used in future attempts to secure aid in building a second bridge. Alderman John Heitl made the motion.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has enraged Quammet. She was killed by a left handed blow from the knife of her sister, Pam Fryc. Interested parties are: Tim Carr, once married to Marina; Roddy Strutt, whose alibiing plane crash was deliberate; Peggy Boone, an artist; Jennings, an irate plumber; and persons unknown who burned down the Fryc's barn, biffed Asey, Tim and Pam's father, and destroyed Jack Lorne's mural sketches. Missing is a $50,000 lump of ambergris belonging to Pam which several people must have seen on the beach fire post office plane, Asey gets into the post office on Sunday for another look at the mural.

Chapter 39

AGREEMENT ALL AROUND

"The miscreants!" Elliott said. "This is an outrage. This is why there's not a single inch of that mural or of the side panels left! Not an inch that isn't covered by that red paint! It's--Jonah, don't you think that this is an outrage?"

Jonah, the dour post master, looked carefully at the Congressman and then at the red smeared walls before replying.

"Well," he said cautiously, "yes, an' no. Yes, an' no, if you ask me. It's a crime to hurt gov'ment property. They hadn't ought to be touched gov'ment property. But I tell you, it seems awful good to be able to look around the inside of this place without blinkin' an' wincin'. Red lead, ain't it, Asey?"

Asey nodded. Red lead seemed to be playing quite a part in this case.

"Put on," Jonah continued, thrusting out an exploratory forefinger, "put on around the middle of last night. I'd say. Kind of a neat job. They didn't spill much paint, an' they didn't do any trampin' around in what they did spill, either. No, sir, this wasn't no mad job. This was deliberate."

"I am profoundly shocked," Elliott said. "Profoundly. I'm at a loss."

His voice was entirely serious, and so was his face, and both were impressing Jonah enormously. But it seemed to Asey that underneath his seriousness, Elliott was considerably pleased, and considerably relieved. It had solved his problems, anyway.

"I s'pose the picture's ruined," Jonah asked hopefully.

Elliott looked inquiringly at Asey.

"I guess so," Asey said. "I don't think you'll be able to do much reclaimin', an' it'll cost a pretty penny."

Jonah nodded. "I see."

"But I think I may safely say," Elliott went on, "that the chances of this work of--er--art, this work of art being reclaimed or renovated are--well, they're remote. Jonah. They're remote."

He spoke with such relish that for a moment Asey wondered if Elliott might possibly have lost his key on purpose.

"That's fine," Jonah said. "I don't mind tellin' you, I sort of wanted to paint the thing out, myself."

"Off record," Elliott said heartily, "me too, Jonah."

"A Silly Story"

"Say," Jonah, who had walked over to the front door, beckoned to them. "Say, looky here, in the inside of the lock here. Looky! This gold key. This--"

"In the door?" Elliott asked unhappily.

"Right smack in the front door-- it's unlocked, an' this key's sittin' here on the inside. Say--well, what do you know about that, this's your key, Elliott!"

"Impossible," Elliott said with prompt firmness. "Absolutely impossible. I don't believe it!"

"Well, it's got your name on the tag," Jonah said. "L. P. Elliott. That's you, ain't it? Say, you oughtn't to forget this. El. You'd ought to be more careful!"

"But, man alive. I had nothing to do with this! If that is my key, it was stolen. As a matter of fact, I knew it had been stolen. A man came out of my hedge--" Elliott stopped in confusion.

"It is," Asey said sympathetically, "kind of a silly story, ain't it?"

"But it's true! Jonah, you've got to believe me--"

"I won't say a word," Jonah said. "Not a word. Here, take it. Now, you know what I think? We came in the back way, an' no one seen us. But if they did, we can fix 'em."

Gains are Erased After Upturns on Wheat Quotations

Transient Rise at Chicago Attributed to Jumps of Securities

Chicago—(P)—Receding late today from upturns of about a cent a bushel, Chicago wheat prices more than lost the gains.

The transient rise of wheat values here was attributed mostly to jumps of securities. Favorable weather and crop conditions, however, prompted an increase of selling on price advances.

In the close, Chicago wheat futures were unchanged to a lower compared with yesterday's finish, July 75¢, Sep. 76½¢, corn unchanged to a higher, July 57½¢, Sep. 58½¢, and oats unchanged to a ½¢.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR
Minneapolis—(P)—Flour, carload lots, per bbl. in 93 lb. cotton sacks: family patents, unchanged, 5.85-6.05; standard patents, unchanged, 5.05-5.25. Shipments 17,119. Pure bran 16.50-17.00. Standard middlings 19-20-20.00.

MILWAUKEE GRAINS
Milwaukee—(P)—Wheat No. 2 hard 81-82; corn No. 2 yellow 58-59; No. 2 white 58½-59; oats No. 2 white 28½-29; rye No. 2, 54-55; barley malting 50-52; feed 40-43.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
New York—(P)—Refreshed by a two-day lull, the stock market leaped forward today on a resurgence of its sweeping June advance to the highest levels of the movement.

Trading hit the fastest pace since the tail-end of the autumn decline last October. Leading industrial shares rose 1 to 6 points or so and yielded part of the gain.

Building shares, benefitting from indications of a broadening building revival, were outstanding performers, most of them reaching new highs for the year. U. S. Gypsum, starting for the construction group, soared more than 10 points, but yielded part of the gain.

The market started tamely, then lurched ahead when it became apparent there was no great urge to sell.

Transactions approximated 2,700,000 shares.

Rails, at a more sedate pace than steel, chemical, motor, farm implement and other industrials, joined the advance, aided by evidence of gradual expansion in traffic in preliminary weekly loading figures of individual roads. Utilities also participated for the breadth of the buying equalled anything wall street has seen in months.

Demand for building shares lifted American Radiator, Johns-Manville, Crane, Otis Elevator, National Gypsum, and other issues 1 to more than 5 in the most urgent demand the group had witnessed in a long time.

Leading the rise were such shares as Du Pont, Westinghouse, General Electric, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, American Telephone, Santa Fe, New York Central, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda Copper, Kennecott, U. S. Rubber and Union Carbide.

On the curb, the advance echoed in gains of 1 to more than 5 points in Aluminum of America, American Cyanamid B, Gulf Oil, Jones and Laughlin Steel and Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden said "This is the worst luck I've ever had" after he arrived at Wilmington, Del., for a celebration in connection with the 300th anniversary of the landing of the first Swedish colonists, ill with a kidney ailment. The prince became ill during the crossing. He was able to get out of his sickbed for the trip to a New York hospital for observation.

No Action on Cut in Steel Wages for Month

New York—(P)—United States Steel corporation plans to give its new lower prices a month's test to see whether they generate new business before pressing for any reduction in steel workers' wages. Iron Age said today in its weekly review of the steel industry.

"The steel wage question still is up in the air, with a four weeks testing of effect of the new lowered prices likely before any decision is reached to reduce or maintain current wage rates," the publication said. "Apparently a sharp run up in operations could prevent a pay reduction, the terms of which will be negotiated in United States Steel Corporation and Steel Workers Organizing Committee wage conferences."

Kaukauna to Meet Green Bay Sunday In Valley League

Brewers Will Attempt to Keep 2nd Half Season Winning Stride

Kaukauna — Intensive practices this week are the rule for Manager Wally Kilgas' youths of the Fox River Valley nine who play their most important game of the year here Sunday afternoon against the Thomas Druggs of Green Bay. The Brewers, off to a fast start in the first half schedule which closed June 19, slipped to fourth as the half ended. Last Sunday they beat Appleton 4 to 2, and a win over the Bay nine, acclaimed the strongest in the loop, will stamp them as chief claimants to the second half crown. Eddie Schuler, out of the first half due to sickness, who shut out Appleton in all but one inning, will take the mound for the Kaws, Kilgas said. Junior Martens, University of Wisconsin student who caught Schuler last Sunday, will start his second game for the locals. The Bays, who have won their last six games in a row, will be hard to stop. Rodie of Notre Dame is their latest mound acquisition and the fast baller has yet to meet defeat.

George Bloch, snuffed from behind the bat to the outfield to see add vantage of his slugging, Gub Busse and Joe Gossens, recent Kimberly addition, will roam the outfield. Ray Dieckhoff will hold down the in-field sack and do relief duty on the mound if Schuler falters. Bill Rohan at second, Carl Schuler at short and Joey Gertz at third complete the lineup. Gertz looks like a real asset to the squad last Sunday connecting for four straight hits, driving in half of the Kaukauna tallies and playing a sparkling game field. Vic Rohan and Omaha Gast are the utility men.

Team	Won	Lost
Kappell's Tavern	3	0
Kaukauna Club	2	1
Mill Office	2	1
South C.Y.O.	2	1
Hooymanites	0	1
North C.Y.O.	0	4

Kaukauna — The south side C.Y.O. softball team trampled the luckless north side outfit last night, 5 to 1. Carl Giordana, on the mound for the victors, allowed only five hits, and did not surrender a run until the last inning. In the fourth the south sideers completed the first triple play of the year.

Vanovenhoven and Schumann singled to start the inning for the first hits off Giordana. Pat Burns then hit a line drive to Leo Weigman at second, who doubled Schumann off first. First baseman Lee Lambie threw to Ed Jackel at third who caught Vanovenhoven off base.

In the last frame Schumann singled and rode home on Burns' double for their only counter.

The winners counted twice in the second when Jackel and Bud Boetz singled, both coming home later on an error. In the fourth Wandell singled and scored on a passed ball after stealing second and third. The final tallies were added in the sixth. Lambie led off with a two fly swat and Boetz followed with a one-baser. Both scored when Weigman's easy roller was muffed.

Jackel and Boetz had two hits for the winners. Schumann was the only north sider to connect twice. Joe Sanders, south side catcher, hit a triple, the game's longest blow.

Theater Programs Will Raise Funds To Help Chinese

Proceeds Will be Used to Aid Stricken in War-Torn Country

Kaukauna — The programs which will be presented at the Rialto and Vaudeville theatres next Tuesday and Wednesday when Kaukauna holds its theater benefit for the relief of stricken Chinese was announced last night by Chairman Reuben Rosenblatt. Buck Herzog, motion picture editor of a Milwaukee newspaper, will be present and speak briefly, Rosenblatt said.

The feature attraction at the Rialto theater will be "Stolen Heaven," with Gene Raymond, Olympe Bradna, Glenda Farrell and Lewis Stone. Herbie Kay will be shown in a musical short, "O. K. Rhythm," with Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen in "Free and Easy," and a March of Time filling out the bill.

At the Vaudeville theater the feature will be "Out of Paradise," with Phil Regan and Penny Singleton, accompanied by short subjects.

Sell Tickets

With less than a week before the first show Tuesday ticket sales are proceeding rapidly, organizations reported yesterday. Thirty-two civic groups have pledged their support to the benefit. The project is a part of the national "Bowl of Rice" movement. Both movie houses will hold a matinee on Tuesday afternoon.

More than 1,500 parties are being held in the United States during June to raise funds. Spring rice crops have not been planted yet in China due to warfare, and there will be few crops this fall and winter. One season without harvest means starvation to many Chinese, according to the United Council for Civilian Relief in China, sponsoring the nation wide program.

With every local group pledged to cooperate it marks the first time that any event has been given such city-wide support. Capacity audiences at both theaters each night is the aim of the chairman.

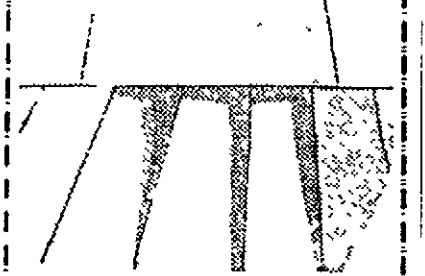

Officers installed were Arthur H. Mongin, president, Carl Bartsch, first vice president, Theodore Oudenhoven second vice president, C. P. Goetzman, secretary, Mike Klein, treasurer, Earl H. Mollet, non tamer; Luke Van Lieshout, tail twister, Joseph Sadler and J. W. Weyenberg, director.
